got its green grove from the stirrings of conservation in the time of John Muir to origins of the recreational parks and coastal preserves in the early twentieth century from the fight to stop bay fill and control suburban growth after the Second World War to securing conservation easements and stopping toxic pollution in our times Here modern environmentalism first became a mass political movement in the 1960s with the sudden blooming of the Sierra Club and Save the Bay and it remains a global center of environmentalism to this day Green values have been a pillar of Bay Area life and politics for more than a century It is an environmentalism grounded in local places and personal concerns close to the heart of the city Yet this vision of what a city should be has always been informed by liberal even utopian ideas of nature planning government and democracy In the end green is one of the primary colors in the flag of the Left Coast where green enthusiasms like open space are built into the fabric of urban life Written in a lively and accessible style The Country in the City will be of interest to general readers and environmental activists At the same time it speaks to fundamental debates in environmental history urban planning and geography

Golden Memories of the San Francisco Bay Area Steven Friedman, 2000 San Francisco the flamboyant and cosmopolitan city by the bay and its neighboring municipalities was born to tell stories upon stories Ranging in ages from 68 to 91 the narrators reflect the ethnic and religious diversity of a metropolis that has been a pioneer of several social political and cultural movements They also stretch across both ends of the economic spectrum A Japanese American woman describes the harsh humiliation of internment during World War II while an Irish Catholic man fondly remembers being a paperboy in the same neighborhood for ten years until he was 20 An African American woman from Marin City explains why she'll never sell the quilts she makes Another woman recalls kissing under the Golden Gate Bridge with the man who eventually became her husband The book also utilizes more than 80 photographs from the narrators and the collections of local libraries museums and historical societies to complement the poignant humorous and revealing portraits of the people and places of the San Francisco Bay Area

Housing the City by the Bay John Baranski, 2019-02-26 San Francisco has always had an affordable housing problem Starting in the aftermath of the 1906 earthquake and ending with the dot com boom Housing the City by the Bay considers the history of one proposed answer to the city's ongoing housing crisis public housing John Baranski follows the ebbs and flows of San Francisco's public housing program the Progressive Era and New Deal reforms that led to the creation of the San Francisco Housing Authority in 1938 conflicts over urban renewal and desegregation and the federal and local efforts to privatize government housing at the turn of the twenty first century This history of public housing sheds light on changing attitudes towards liberalism the welfare state and the economic and civil rights attached to citizenship Baranski details the ways San Francisco residents turned to the public housing program to build class based political movements in a multi racial city and introduces us to the individuals community activists politicians reformers and city employees who were continually forced to seek new strategies to achieve their aims as the winds of federal legislation shifted Ultimately Housing the City by the Bay advances the idea that public
