Making Slow Food Fast in California Cuisine Victor W. Geraci, 2017-03-02 This book follows the development of industrial agriculture in California and its influence on both regional and national eating habits Early California politicians and entrepreneurs envisioned agriculture as a solution to the food needs of the expanding industrial nation The state's climate geography vast expanses of land water and immigrant workforce when coupled with university research and governmental assistance provided a model for agribusiness In a short time the San Francisco Bay Area became a hub for guaranteeing Americans access to a consistent quantity of quality foods To this end California agribusiness played a major role in national food policies and subsequently produced a bifurcated California Cuisine that sustained both Slow and Fast Food proponents Problems arose as mid twentieth century social activists battled the unresponsiveness of government
