In Pursuit of Beauty Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 1986. This project is the first comprehensive study of a phenomenon that not only dominated the American arts of the 1870s and 1880s but also helped set the course of such later developments in the United States as the Arts and Crafts movement, the indigenous interpretation of Art Nouveau, and even the rise of modernism. In fact, the early history of the Metropolitan, its founding, its sponsorship of a school of industrial design, and its display of decorative works is inextricably tied to the Aesthetic movement and its educational goals. In Pursuit of Beauty: Americans and the Aesthetic Movement comprised some 175 objects including furniture, metalwork, stained glass, ceramics, textiles, wallpaper, painting, and sculpture. Some of these had rarely been displayed; others, although familiar, were being shown in new and even startling contexts. The exhibition and catalogue are arranged thematically to illustrate both the major styles of a visually rich movement and the ideas that generated its diversity. From publisher's description.

Writing Out of Place Judith Fetterley, Marjorie Pryse, 2003. In a series of sketches, regionalist writers such as Alice Cary, Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, Sarah Orne Jewett, Grace King, Alice Dunbar Nelson, Sui Sin Far, and Mary Austin critique the approach to regional subjects characteristic of local color and present narrators who serve as cultural interpreters for persons often considered out of place by urban readers. In their approach to these writers, Fetterley and Pryse offer contemporary readers an alternative vantage point from which to consider questions of regions and regionalism in the global economy of our own time. A House of Her Own Beth Luey, 2023-10-11. Since the founding of the United States, women have picked up their pens to write and express their ideas, affording them independence and self-sufficiency in days when they had little. By way of their poetry, essays, advice columns, investigative journalism, and more, women like Helen Keller, Louisa May Alcott, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, and Shirley Jackson wrote not only to entertain and inform but often to simply keep a roof over their heads. This text offers a unique examination of female New England writers focusing on their homes. The women wrote in many genres and became literary entrepreneurs, bargaining with editors for higher fees and royalties, participating in marketing campaigns, and seeking advice and help. The homes women bought with their earnings included cottages, suburban houses, farms, and an occasional mansion. Whether modest or luxurious, these houses provided the room of her own that Virginia Woolf said every woman needs in order to write. Sometimes that room was an elegant study, and sometimes a corner of the kitchen.

Spare the Birds! Carolyn Merchant, 2016-08-23. In 1887, a year after founding the Audubon Society, explorer and conservationist George Bird Grinnell launched Audubon Magazine. The magazine constituted one of the first efforts to preserve bird species decimated by the women's hat trade hunting and loss of habitat Within two years however for practical reasons Grinnell dissolved both the magazine and the society Remarkably Grinnell's mission was soon revived by women and men who believed in it and the work continues today In this the only comprehensive history of the first Audubon Society 1886-1889 Carolyn Merchant presents the exceptional story of George Bird Grinnell and his writings and legacy The book features Grinnell's biographies of ornithologists John James Audubon and Alexander Wilson and his editorials and descriptions of Audubon's bird paintings This primary documentation combined with Carolyn Merchant's insightful analysis casts new light on Grinnell the origins of the first Audubon Society and the conservation of avifauna Oscar Wilde's America Mary Warner Blanchard, 1998-01-01 In 1882 Oscar Wilde toured America as the Apostle of Aestheticism The nation was still shaken by the Civil War and Wilde's message of regeneration through art and beauty seemed to open new horizons In this first cultural history of the aesthetic movement in the U.S. Mary Blanchard provides an imaginative account of a neglected dimension of our history 221 illustrations Beyond the Garden Gate Norma H. Mandel, 2004 The first new biography in twenty years of a beloved New England writer The Environmental Imagination Lawrence Buell, 1996-09-01 With Thoreau's Walden as a touchstone Buell offers an account of environmental perception the place of nature in the history of Western thought and the consequences for literary scholarship of attempting to imagine a more ecocentric way of being In doing so he provides a profound rethinking of our literary and cultural reflections on nature Oral and Written English Milton Chase Potter, Harry Jewett Jeschke, Harry Orrin Gillet, 1917 American Women Prose Writers Amy E. Hudock, Katharine Rodier, 2001 Includes South Carolinians Mary Boykin Chesnut and Sarah Moore Grimké The Colby Library Quarterly, 1987 Mystery on the Isles of Shoals J. Dennis Robinson, 2014-11-18 For the first time the full story of a crime that has haunted New England since 1873 The cold blooded ax murder of two innocent Norwegian women at their island home off the coast of New Hampshire has gripped the region since 1873 beguiling tourists inspiring artists and fueling conspiracy theorists The killer a handsome Prussian fisherman down on his luck was quickly captured convicted in a widely publicized trial and hanged in an unforgettable gallows spectacle But he never confessed and while in prison gained a circle of admirers whose blind faith in his innocence still casts a shadow of doubt A fictionalized bestselling novel and a Hollywood film have further clouded the truth Finally a definitive whodunnit account of the Smuttynose Island ax murders has arrived Popular historian J. Dennis Robinson fleshes out the facts surrounding this tragic robbery gone wrong in a captivating true crime page turner Robinson delves into the backstory at the rocky Isles of Shoals as an isolated centuries old fishing village was being destroyed by a modern luxury hotel He explores the neighboring island of Appledore where Victorian poet Celia Thaxter entertained the elite artists and writers of Boston It was Thaxter's powerful essay about the murders in the Atlantic Monthly that shocked the American public Robinson goes beyond the headlines of the burgeoning yellow press to explore the deeper lessons about American crime justice economics and hero worship Ten years before the Lizzie Borden ax murder trial and the fictional Sherrie A. Inness, Diana Royer, 1997 Poet on Demand Jane E. Vallier, 1994 An examination of Celia Thaxter's career and personal life detailing her poetry, diverse roles, and decline in popularity. During the last quarter of the nineteenth century, Celia Thaxter was the most popular of America's woman poets, surpassing in importance many others whose names are better known today. Yet Celia's fame began to wane even before her death in 1894. Perhaps as Jane Vallier suggests in this study of Thaxter's life, adverse financial circumstances forced the poet to try her hand as a folklorist, juvenile author, freelance journalist, dramatic actress, naturalist, and illustrator as well. In this, the first extensive literary biography of Celia Thaxter, author Vallier explains the meaning and symbolism of Thaxter's poetry and describes how Celia's unhappy marriage and her life on the Isles of Shoals off the coast of New Hampshire colored her poetry and prose. Included in this reprint of the original 1982 edition is a new introduction with additional photographs, fifty-three of Thaxter's poems, plus a reprint of "A Memorable Murder," the story of the killing of two women on Smuttynose Island in 1873 and first published in Atlantic Monthly.
