Long Lived And Short Lived Animal:

Evolution of Longevity in Animals Avril Woodhead, 2013-03-07 The analysis of intra group correlations between LS and BW at representative intervals yields no consistent support for the hypothesis that lower BW is associated with longer LS. Indeed among male Wistar rats and C57BL 6J and A J mice followed since weaning on AL diets the data suggested that relatively higher BW across the adult LS was generally associated with longer life. Even when the diet was restricted by EOD or RES regimens this pattern of positive correlations between LS and BW persisted for the C57BL 6J and A J strains when relative ages were analyzed. However when BW at absolute ages were correlated with LS support for the positive relationship between BW and LS was not as forthcoming. When AL groups were assessed beginning at later ages 10 months the pattern of positive correlations was very evident for the Wistar rats heavier rats tended to live longer. This pattern was also evident among AL fed C57BL 6J mice followed since 6 months but was lost in the 10 month group in this strain. Among A J mice on AL diets the pattern became somewhat negative when followed at 6 and 10 months of age. However among both C57BL 6J and A J mice placed on EOD diets at 6 and 10 months of age the pattern clearly tended toward the positive. Report of the ...

Meeting ANZAAS (Association), 1928 Toxicology of the Pancreas Parviz M. Pour, 2005-07-27 The increased incidence of pancreatic cancer in the Western world and its grave prognosis has resulted in an urgency for research in this area. Until now the available data on toxicology of the pancreas has been few and fragmentary scattered throughout the literature. A benchmark volume Toxicology of the Pancreas pulls together information in this neglected area of toxicological research and highlights fundamental research performed in the last ten years. Leaders in the field discuss important structures the detoxification and toxification process at the cellular and sub cellular level the distribution of phase 1 and phase 2 drug metabolizing enzymes and their role in pancreatic disease and the role of diet and toxicants on pancreatic disease. The book also covers the role of altered genes in the integrity of the pancreas and explores comparative toxicology in humans and in the lab species used in testing. Illustrated with histological electron microscopical and immunohistochemical formats this book provides a comprehensive and novel presentation of biological and toxicological data. It stands alone as a reliable resource of information easily accessible to professionals in different disciplines. Long-lived Proteins in Human Aging and Disease Roger J. W. Truscott, 2021-02-12 This authoritative overview on an emerging topic in the molecular life sciences covers all aspects of the aging of long lived proteins. It describes the molecular mechanisms of aging on the protein level in particular the most common side chain modifications and includes analytical methods to study protein half life and the accumulation of modifications. Finally the impact of protein aging on several age related diseases in humans is dissected and their role in limiting human lifespan is discussed. Experiment Station Record U.S. Office of Experiment Stations, United States. toxicology pharmacology and medicine this handbook is the very first to tie together the knowledge from many disciplines that has so far been available only from widely dispersed sources in the primary literature As such it presents the complete picture on what is currently known about endogenous toxins including their generation mode of action resulting disease condition and available countermeasures Clearly divided into four parts the first systematically covers important toxic molecule species including metabolic intermediates and reactive oxygen species The second discusses the role of genetically determined metabolic malfunctions such as galactosemia hyperlipidemia porphyria hemochromatosis and related conditions while part three looks at acquired and chronic diseases caused or exacerbated by endogenous toxins such as hepatic injury asthma rheumatism colorectal cancer reperfusion diseases neurodegeneration and aging The final part reviews current strategies to control and minimize the effect of endogenous toxins either by nutritional or pharmacological interventions With its complete coverage integrating molecular and systemic aspects from the biochemical basis to human disease conditions this comprehensive reference will appeal to a broad target group of toxicologists biochemists nutrition specialists and physicians Ageing Robin Holliday,1995-01-27 This book presents a completely novel approach to the understanding of ageing which many believe is an unsolved problem in biology It explains why ageing exists in animals and reviews our understanding of it at the biological level This includes a discussion of the origins and evolution of ageing The book is not a review of research on ageing but instead draws on material from a wide range of disciplines including the very extensive biomedical information about age related diseases in humans Understanding Ageing argues that much research needs to be done on the cellular and molecular aspects of ageing if the origins of these diseases are to be understood and their prevention made possible This thought provoking book will appeal to all students and researchers who are interested in ageing whether they are working in the clinical or basic research sphere Handbook of the Biology of Aging Edward J. Masoro,Steven N.

Oxford Textbook of Cancer Biology Francesco Pezzella, Mahvash Tavassoli, David Kerr, 2019-05-02 The study of the biology of tumours has grown to become markedly interdisciplinary, involving chemists, statisticians, epidemiologists, mathematicians, bioinformaticians, and computer scientists alongside biologists, geneticists, and clinicians. The Oxford Textbook of Cancer Biology brings together the most up-to-date developments from different branches of research into one coherent volume, providing a comprehensive and current account of this rapidly evolving field. Structured in eight sections, the book starts with a review of the development and biology of multi-cellular organisms, how they maintain a healthy homeostasis in an individual, and a description of the molecular basis of cancer development. The book then illustrates, as once cells become neoplastic, their signalling network is altered and pathological behaviour follows. It explores the changes that cancer cells can induce in nearby normal tissue, the new relationship established between them and the stroma, and the interaction between the immune system and tumour growth The authors illustrate the contribution provided by high throughput techniques to map cancer at different levels from genomic sequencing to cellular metabolic functions and how information technology with its vast amounts of data is integrated with traditional cell biology to provide a global view of the disease The effect of the different types of treatments on the biology of the neoplastic cells are explored to understand on the one side why some treatments succeed and on the other how they can affect the biology of resistant and recurrent disease The book concludes by summarizing what we know to date about cancer and in what direction our understanding of cancer is moving Edited by leading authorities in the field with an international team of contributors this book is an essential resource for scholars and professionals working in the wide variety of sub disciplines that make up today s cancer research and treatment community It is written not only for consultation but also for easy cover to cover reading

Aging: The Paradox of Life Robin Holliday,2007-05-04 For centuries people have been puzzled by the inevitability of human aging For most of the second half of the twentieth century aging remained a mystery or an unsolved biological problem At the end of the 20th century a remarkable scientific discovery emerged It was not a single discovery in the usual sense because it was based on a series of important interconnected insights over quite a long period of time These insights made it possible for the very first time to understand the biological reasons for aging in animals and man It can already be said however that the many observations and insights that explain aging will not be accepted as established knowledge for a long time The field is still full of scientists and non scientists who are just happy to go on speculating about the mystery of aging The aim of this book is to dispel ignorance by explaining in non technical language what are the reasons for aging and the myth of excessive prolongation of life
