National Trust The First Hundred Years:

The National Trust Merlin Waterson, 1997 This volume commemorates the centenary of the founding of the National Trust and highlights the work of current conservationists within the organization It recounts the growth of the Trust from its earliest days and explores the complex issues affecting conservation and restoration

The National Trust Merlin Waterson, 1994

National Trust the First Hundred Years Merlin Waterson, 2006-03 The National Trust for Places of Historic Interest or Natural Beauty celebrated its 100th birthday on 12 January 1995 Merlin Waterson traces the remarkable development of the charity and looks at the range of properties and tasks it deals with daily

Transactions of the Royal Historical Society: Volume 13 Royal Historical Society, 2003-12-18 The Transactions of the Royal Historical Society publish an annual collection of major articles representing some of the best historical research by some of the world's most distinguished historians Volume thirteen of the sixth series includes the following articles Presidential Address England and the Continent in the ninth century Vikings and Others According to ancient custom the restoration of altars in the Restoration Church of England Einhard the sinner and the saints Migrants immigrants and welfare from the Old Poor Law to the Welfare State Jack Tar and the gentleman officer the role of uniform in shaping the class and gender related identities of British naval personnel 1930 1939 Writing fornication medieval Leyrwite and its historians Resistance reprisal and community in Occupied France 1941 1944 There is also a themed section which looks at Architecture and History

Politics and Preservation John Delafons, J. Delafons, 2005-08-12 This book traces the policy history of urban conservation and its relationship to the town planning process and both are set in their political context Part One deals with the origins of conservation and its cultural background Part Two deals with the post war legislation and the increasing scope of conservation Part Three deals with churches and their separate control system and Part Four brings the story up to the present time New issues such as sustainable conservation and the latest government policy are addressed in the conclusion This book will aid current practice and help to inform future directions

The Conservation Movement in Norfolk Susanna Wade Martins, 2015 This book is not only about wildlife habitats landscapes historic buildings and archaeology it is also about changing attitudes and priorities

Advanced Introduction to Cultural Heritage Law Lorenzo Casini, 2024-03-14 Lorenzo Casini delves into the increasing globalization of cultural heritage law in this innovative and thought provoking Advanced Introduction In addition to answering fundamental questions on cultural property Casini connects national and global aspects of cultural heritage law dissects old and contemporary dilemmas and examines the future challenges of cultural heritage law in the digital age

The Green Web Martin Holdgate, 2014-04-08 This text is a history of the world's oldest global conservation body the World Conservation Union established in 1948 as a forum for governments non governmental organizations and individual conservationists The author draws on unpublished archives to reveal the often turbulent story of the IUCN and its achievements in and influence on conservation and environmental policy worldwide establishing national parks and protected areas and defending threatened species Stories from Home Margaret Ponsonby, 2016-04-01 Most homes in the past were not elite wealthy interiors complete with high fashion furnishings designed by well known architects and designers as many domestic histories often seem to have assumed As this book makes clear there were in fact an enormous variety of house interiors in England during the period 1750 1850 reflecting the location status and gender of particular householders as well as their changing attitudes tastes and aspirations By focusing on non metropolitan homes which represented the majority of households in England this study highlights the need for historians to look beyond prevailing attitudes that often reduce interiors to generic descriptions based on high fashions of the decorative arts Instead it shows how numerous social and cultural influences affected the manner in which homes were furnished and decorated Issues such as the availability of goods gender regional taste income the second hand market changing notions of privacy and household hierarchies and print culture could all have a significant impact on domestic furnishing The study ends with a discussion of how domestic interiors of historic properties have been presented and displayed in modern times highlighting how competing notions of the past can cloud as well as illuminate the issue Combining cultural history and qualitative analysis of evidence this book presents a new way of looking at ordinary and provincial homes that enriches our understanding of English domestic life of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries The British Country

House Revival Ben Cowell, 2024 British country houses have experienced a renaissance since the early 1970s A new accord is needed today recognising the increasingly contested contribution of country houses to British cultural life Fifty years ago the future for country houses in Britain looked bleak The Victoria Albert Museum's exhibition The Destruction of the Country House which opened in October 1974 charted the loss of over a thousand country houses in the preceding century The makers of the exhibition warned that history could be about to repeat itself because of the threats besetting mansion properties principally from higher taxation Houses faced the prospect of having to be stripped of their collections and sold for use as offices hotels or hospitals with their parks and gardens turned into golf clubs Government might afford to save just a handful of the most significant of these places working in tandem with charities such as the National Trust The rest would be consigned to history This book traces the history of country houses in Britain from the Destruction exhibition to the present day The wave of country house losses anticipated in 1974 never actually happened Instead over the next five decades Britain's country houses experienced a renaissance Fiscal rules changed in the mid 1970s to make it easier for owners to hold on to their assets Economic improvements in the 1980s and 1990s allowed many houses and estates to develop profitable commercial businesses All of this was achieved only after dedicated campaigning from heritage organisations in support of the country house cause The book argues that a new accord is needed today to recognise and value the ongoing if increasingly contested contribution of country houses to British life and culture in the twenty first century
