The American Indian Mind in a Linear World Donald L. Fixico, 2024-09-27 Now in its second edition The American Indian Mind in a Linear World examines the persistence of Native peoples in retaining their own worldviews from the pre Columbian era into the twenty first century The book explores the ways in which Indian people who are close to their cultural traditions think in a circular fashion understand by relying on visual analysis and make decisions from an Indigenous logic Yet Comanches have a different reality from Mohawks Apache ethos is not like that of the Lakotas and Indian men and women see things differently How and why is the Native mind different from the western world Why have white teachers and missionaries tried to change the minds of Native students The Indian perspective is not wrong it is simply different and inclusive another way of looking at the world and universe This edition updates the discussion with a new chapter on contemporary American Indian intellectualism and further analysis of the preservation of Indigenous traditional knowledge Approachable and engaging this volume is a key resource for students and scholars of Native American and Indigenous studies and Indigenous history

Museums and the Representation of Native Canadians Moira McLoughlin, 2018-10-24 If we were to think about museums as three dimensional maps as spaces to be divided defended and privileged what would they tell us about the place of Native Canadians within the larger nation Utilizing a combination of exhibit analysis and interviews this book explores how Canadian history anthropology and art museums have situated Native Canadian history and culture within a larger narrative of nationhood Until very recently these museums have with few exceptions perpetuated the continued isolation of Native Canadians on the Other side of carefully demarcated boundaries of time space and culture Despite a living and highly politicized presence outside their walls inside these museums Native Canadians have remained fixed and isolated in time and space This book discusses how this particular image of Native Canadians has been translated into the numerous dichotomies and borders of the museum between modern and traditional past and present myth and science progress and stasis active and passive and ultimately us and them However in tribal museums and more recent programming at the larger museums we are able to identify alternative maps that realign these borders and give voice to alternative constructions of these histories The past decade has seen enormous change in how museum curators educators and directors imagine their role in these museums and more particularly in the construction of a history of Native Canadians This book considers how museums and those who work within them have responded to the
