Native Stranger:

Native Tongue, Stranger Talk Michelle Hartman, 2014-06-30 Can a reality lived in Arabic be expressed in French Can a French language literary work speak Arabic In Native Tongue Stranger Talk Hartman shows how Lebanese women authors use spoken Arabic to disrupt literary French with sometimes surprising results Challenging the common claim that these writers express a Francophile or colonized consciousness this book demonstrates how Lebanese women writers actively question the political and cultural meaning of writing in French in Lebanon Hartman argues that their innovative language inscribes messages about society into their novels by disrupting class status hierarchies narrow ethno religious identities and rigid gender roles Because the languages of these texts reflect the crucial issues of their times Native Tongue Stranger Talk guides the reader through three key periods of Lebanese history the French Mandate and Early Independence the Civil War and the postwar period Three novels are discussed in each time period exposing the contours of how the authors write Arabic in French to invent new literary languages

Performances Denning, Greg, 2013-04-04 history is my passion Writing it teaching it reading it fills the days and years of my life In all passions there is pain and pleasure Greg Denning In this collection of writings some new some previously published Greg Denning reflects on his experiences both as a historian and a participant in history Performances brings together the personal and the scholarly demonstrating how our lives are saturated with history how we can only understand our present through our consciousness of the past and how in thinking about the past we mirror the time and place of our own living Each of these essays can be enjoyed on its own yet throughout them all run the common themes of the intricate relationships between past and present the personal and the political historical research and the imagination Denning writes with elegance and candour inviting readers to reflect upon their own participation in the performance of history
