Cattle Housing Systems, Lameness and Behaviour H.K. Wierenga,D.J. Peterse,1987-03-31 Proceedings of a Seminar held in Brussels on June 3 4 1986 at the Commission of the European Communities , Helminth Zoonoses Stanny

Geerts,V. Kumar,J. Brandt,1987-06-30 In spite of the availability of modern broad spectrum anthelmintic drugs the prevention and control of helminth zoonoses remain a challenge to human and veterinary parasitologists and to physicians and veterina rians working on the field Although the life cycles of most helminths of zoonotic importance are well known there are still major gaps in our knowledge especially in the fields of epidemiology diagnosis and treat ment The International Colloquium on Helminth Zoonoses held at the Institute of Tropical Medicine Antwerp 11 12 December 1986 laid emphasis on more recent advances made in the control and epidemiology of these zoonotic diseases. The disease complexes echinococcosis, hydatidosis, taeniasis, cysticercosis, and the larva migrans syndrome were dealt with in considerable detail. In the first chapter, the phenomenon of strain variation in Echinococcus spp. is examined in the light of newer findings. The progress made in recent years towards a more specific diagnosis and drug targeting in hydatidosis is reported. In the second chapter, recent advances in immunisation and treatment of cysticercosis are dealt with. The possibility of the existence of strain differences in Taenia saginata is also discussed. The third chapter is devoted to trematode zoonoses with particular reference to the situation in South-east Asia: Senegal schistosomiasis and Liberia paragonimiasis. In the last chapter, the larva migrans syndrome is treated in detail with special attention to its etiology and diagnosis. Reports on lesser known nematode zoonoses like mammomonosomiasis and oesophagostomiasis are included.

Physiological and Pharmacological Aspects of the Reticulo-Rumen L.A.A. Ooms, A.D. Degryse, A.S.J.P.A.M. van Miert, 2012-12-06. The success of a scientific workshop depends on a delicate blend of many types of ingredients. Most important is to select a provocative topic which is at the forefront of a current investigative study. Coupled together with a relatively small but distinguished group of active research scientists known for their continued record of contributing significant findings, one has the firm foundation for an exciting and rewarding investment of time and effort. This was the setting for the first workshop organized by the European Association for Veterinary Pharmacology and Toxicology. Ruminants have been domesticated for many centuries and have served mankind as a source of dairy products, meat, wool, and power. The ruminant stomach has long been and still is a major concern for physiologists, pathologists, clinicians, and pharmacologists. This workshop was organized and convened in an attempt to strengthen the basic science of the ruminant stomach as it applies to an economically important group of mammals. To achieve this, various topics were covered by specialists which ensured presentation of new data followed by discussions. In this book, reviews are presented on the different topics: motility, control and regulation, neurotransmitters, and endogenous substances involved, flow of digesta, comparative aspects, role of content and metabolites, food intake, rumen metabolism, chemical manipulation, metabolism of xenobiotics and drugs, pharmacology of forestomach, motility, and the reticulo-rumen as a pharmacokinetic compartment.

Energy Metabolism in Farm Animals M.W. Verstegen, A.M. Henken, 2012-12-06. Animal production systems have changed dramatically over the last two decades. Knowledge of energy metabolism and environmental physiology has increased as appears from many textbooks on these disciplines. The contents of the symposia on energy metabolism of farm animals show this, and they have initially focussed on feed evaluation and later on comparative aspects of energy metabolism. They show part of the progress being made. Application of knowledge of energy metabolism for animals has a long history since Lavoisier. In addition to this, studies about the environmental requirements of animals have shown that we are still far from accurate assessment of these requirements in terms of nutrients and energy. In model studies on energy metabolism, researchers have recognized the interaction between the environment and the energy requirements of animals Estimation of energy requirements has been done in physiological physical and behavioural studies The impact of conditions as encountered by animals in various production systems has been approached from different viewpoints related to these different disciplines In addition various kinds of infections bacterial parasitic subclinical clinical have been evaluated only recently with regard to their effect on protein and or energy metabolism and thus on production People working in the field of feed evaluation have defined how chemical and physical properties of nutrition influence energy to be derived for maintenance and production Modelling of Livestock Production Systems S. Korver, J.A.M. van Arendonk, 1988-03-31 A seminar in the Community Programme for the Coordination of Agricultural Research held in Brussels Belgium April 7 9 1987
