Preserving The Landscape Of Imagination:

Preserving the Landscape of Imagination Raoul Granqvist, Jürgen Martini, 1997 The Olmsted National Historic Site and the Growth of Historic Landscape Preservation David Grayson Allen, 2007-11-30 A contextual history of Massachusetts Olmsted National Historic Site The Routledge Companion to Environmental Ethics Benjamin Hale, Andrew Light, Lydia Lawhon, 2022-07-29 Written for a wide range of readers in environmental science philosophy and policy oriented programs The Routledge Companion to Environmental Ethics is a landmark comprehensive reference work in this interdisciplinary field Not merely a review of theoretical approaches to the ethics of the environment the Companion focuses on specific environmental problems and other concrete issues Its 65 chapters all appearing in print here for the first time have been organized into the following eleven parts I Animals II Land III Water IV Climate V Energy and Extraction VI Cities VII Agriculture VIII Environmental Transformation IX Policy Frameworks and Response Measures X Regulatory Tools XI Advocacy and Activism The volume not only explains the nuances of important core philosophical positions but also cuts new pathways for the integration of important ethical and policy issues into environmental philosophy It will be of immense help to undergraduate students and other readers coming up to the field for the first time but also serve as a valuable resource for more advanced students as well as researchers who need a trusted resource that also offers fresh policy centered approaches Preserving Cultural Landscapes in America Arnold R. Alanen, Robert Melnick, 2000-04-03 Historic preservation efforts began with an emphasis on buildings especially those associated with significant individuals places or events Subsequent efforts were expanded to include vernacular architecture but only in recent decades have preservationists begun shifting focus to the land itself Cultural landscapes such as farms gardens and urban parks are now seen as projects worthy of the preservationist's attention Landscapes under Pressure Ludomir R. Lozny, 2006-12-30 This book investigates the newly emerging interest to investigate and preserve cultural landscapes It presents the historic archaeological ethnographic and environmental traditions of cultural landscape study and the attempts to reconstruct and analyze the complex processes of cultural changes It points to the benefits of interdisciplinary cooperation which should involve an ecological approach with historical ecology applied archaeology and environmental planning Routledge Companion to Global Heritage Conservation Vinayak Bharne, Trudi Sandmeier, 2019-02-12 The act of identifying protecting restoring and reusing buildings districts and built landscapes of historic and cultural significance is at its best a reflective and consequential process of urban and socio economic reform It has the potential to reconcile conflicting memories meanings and cultural tensions bridging and expanding the perceived boundaries of multiple disciplines towards bigger aspirations of city making and social justice How and where do such aspirations overlap and differ across nations and societies across the world In places with different histories governance structures regulatory stringency and populist dispositions who are the specific players and what are the actual processes that bring about bigger and deeper change

beyond just the conservation of an architectural or urban entity of perceived value This collection of scholarly articles by theorists academics and practitioners explores the global complexity guises and potential of heritage conservation Going from Tokyo to Cairo Shenzhen to Rome and Delhi to Moscow this volume examines a vast range of topics indigenous habitats urban cores vernacular infrastructure colonial towns squatters burial sites war zones and modern landmarks It surfaces numerous inherent issues water stress deforestation social oppression poverty religion immigration and polity expanding the definitions of heritage conservation as both a professional discipline and socio cultural catalyst This book argues that the intellectual and praxis limits of heritage conservation as the agency of reading defining and intervening with built heritage can be expansive aimed at bigger positive change beyond a specific subject or object plural enmeshed with multiple fields and specializations and empathetic born from the actual socio political realities of a place

Grounding Knowledge

Christopher J. Preston, 2010-01-25 Mountains and freeways oceans and apartment buildings trees and automobiles such things lend shape to mental activity says Christopher J Preston Yet Western epistemology since its origins has neglected these material factors Even postmodern perspectives on how we think and know continue to emphasize social and cultural factors over the physical environment Grounding Knowledge claims that one of the unforeseen consequences of this anthropocentrism has been to ignore the epistemic argument for maintaining diverse natural environments Grounding Knowledge supplies that argument Preston first traces the separation of place and mind in Western epistemology Drawing connections between skepticism and ungrounded knowledge he then explores how a common insight in the epistemologies of both Kant and Quine sets the scene for more situated accounts of knowledge After showing how science studies and cognitive science have both recently moved in this direction Preston draws further evidence for his thesis from fields as far apart as evolutionary biology anthropology and religious studies He asks what these ideas in contemporary epistemology and environmental philosophy mean for environmental policy concluding that the grounding of knowledge strongly suggests epistemic reasons for the protection of a full range of physical environments in their natural condition Grounding Knowledge comes at a time of increasing dialogue between the sciences and the humanities about our rootedness in all of our different worlds Preston hopes to persuade his readers that it is not only in our biological but also in our cognitive interests to protect these roots
