Preventing Conflict In The Post Communis:

Preventing Conflict in the Post-communist World Abram Chayes, 1996 Western politicians pundits and the public were wholly unprepared for the violent conflicts erupting in eastern and central Europe and the former Soviet Union after the end of the Cold War The governments emerging from communism lack both the authoritarian control to suppress domestic differences and the democratic power to manage them Old conflicts resurfaced and new ones were kindled in virulent form from Bosnia to Chechnya The stability of governments and the status quo of borders have been thrown into question Actual and threatened disintegration of states in the area is widespread No reference points have emerged to replace the cold war paradigm Nor is there a way of knowing which conflicts can be contained within accepted borders and which may spill over The prospect not only of widening conflict but also of new precedents challenging old certainties of international life causes deep concern in western Europe and the United States Europe has many experienced international organizations under whose umbrella states organize to achieve common purposes This book asks how they have performed that function How are these organizations attempting to deal with the many forms of internal conflict that are both the cause and the result of the end of communism and the East West confrontation Despite significant organizational and financial resources the results have been meager The authors show how difficult it is to achieve effective joint action on a sustained basis They contend that a concerted effort to discover how to achieve joint action is the necessary next step in mobilizing international organizations for preventing ethno national conflict In addition to the editors the contributors are Diana Chigas Jarat Chopra Michael W Doyle Keitha Sapsin Fine David S Huntington Christophe Kamp Jean E Manas Elizabeth McClintock John Pinder Wolfgang H Reinicke Reinhardt Rummel Melanie H Stein Shashi Tharoor Thomas G Weiss Richard Weitz and Mario Zucconi A Brookings Occasional Paper Managing Conflict in the Former Soviet Union Alekseï Arbatov, Alekseï Georgievich Arbatov, 1997 This collaborative effort by Russian and American scholars documents Russian policy toward ethno national conflict in its near abroad American policy toward these conflicts and the attempts of international organizations to prevent and resolve them Case studies consider the causes dynamics and prospects of conflicts in Latvia the Crimea the Transdnier region of Moldova Georgia Kazakhstan and the region of North Ossetia and Ingushetia Problems of Post-communism, 2005

Conflict Prevention from Rhetoric to Reality Albrecht Schnabel, David Carment, 2004-01-01 Together with local actors many governments regional organizations and the UN are embracing preventive action as a viable path towards sustainable peace The contributions to this volume trace conflict prevention efforts in various regional contexts and explain how preventive thinking is being successfully mainstreamed into the activities of regional organizations and the UN

Democratisation and the Prevention of Violent Conflict Jenny Engström, 2016-12-05 Challenging the often held belief that democratization necessarily leads to aggressive ethnic nationalism and even violent conflict this book offers an alternative account of democratization and inter ethnic relations It suggests that democratization can in fact help to prevent violent conflict in divided societies as demonstrated by two case studies Bulgaria and Macedonia At a time when democracy promotion is increasingly becoming part of international relations and foreign policy this study offers some poignant lessons for democratization and conflict resolution in places such as Iraq Afghanistan and Israel Palestine to name but a few

Europe and the Recognition of New States in Yugoslavia Richard Caplan, 2005-09-01 Europe's recognition of new states in Yugoslavia remains one of the most controversial episodes in the Yugoslav crisis Richard Caplan offers a detailed narrative of events exploring the highly assertive role that Germany played in the episode the reputedly catastrophic consequences of recognition for Bosnia Herzegovina in particular and the radical departure from customary state practice represented by the EC's use of political criteria as the basis of recognition The book examines the strategic logic and consequences of the EC's actions but also explores the wider implications offering insights into European security policy at the end of the Cold War the relationship of international law to international relations and the management of ethnic conflict The significance of this book extends well beyond Yugoslavia as policymakers continue to wrestle with the challenges posed by violent conflict associated with state fragmentation

Limiting institutions? James Sperling, Sean Kay, Victor Papacosma, 2018-07-30 Eurasian security governance has received increasing attention since 1989 The North Atlantic Treaty Organisation the institution that best served the security interests of the West in its competition with the Soviet Union is now relatively ill equipped resolve the threats emanating from Eurasia to the Atlantic system of security governance This book investigates the important role played by identity politics in the shaping of the Eurasian security environment It investigates both the state in post Soviet Eurasia as the primary site of institutionalisation and the state's concerted international action in the sphere of security This investigation requires a major caveat state centric approaches to security impose analytical costs by obscuring substate and transnational actors and processes The terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon marked the maturation of what had been described as the new terrorism Jervis has argued that the western system of security governance produced a security community that was contingent upon five necessary and sufficient conditions The United States has made an effort to integrate China Russia into the Atlantic security system via the Partnership for Peace PfP programme and the Euro Atlantic Partnership Council The Black Sea Economic Cooperation has become engaged in disseminating security concerns in fields such as environment energy and economy If the end of the Cold War left America triumphant Russia's new geopolitical hand seemed a terrible demotion Successfully rebalancing the West and building a collaborative system with Russia China Europe and America probably requires more wisdom and skill from the world's leaders An electronic edition of this book is freely available under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND licence

Democratic Consolidation in Eastern Europe: Volume 2: International and Transnational Factors Jan Zielonka, Alex Pravda, 2001-06-14 This is the second volume in a two volume series of books on democratic consolidation in Eastern Europe The first volume focused on the issue of institutional engineering This second volume analyses the external parameters of democratic consolidation in thirteen Eastern European countries how different international actors and various economic cultural and security types of transnational pressures have shaped democratic politics in the region The aim is to contrast a set of democracy theories with empirical evidence accumulated in Eastern Europe over the last ten years The volume tries to avoid complex debates about definitions methods and the uses and misuses of comparative research Instead it seeks to establish what has really happened in the region and which of the existing theories are helpful in explaining these developments The volume is divided into two parts The first part presents a conceptual and comparative frame of analysis the second consists of detailed studies of individual countries undergoing democratic consolidation Case study chapters deal with the following countries Estonia and Latvia Hungary Poland the Czech Republic Slovakia Romania Bulgaria and Macedonia the states of former Yugoslavia Belarus and Ukraine and finally Russia The concluding chapter identifies a set of variables responsible for the enormous impact of external factors on democratic consolidation in Eastern Europe It conceptualises the interplay of internal and external factors impinging upon democracy and shows the interplay of different positive and negative types of external pressures It also evaluates the conscious Western effort to craft or engineer democracy in Eastern Europe

The Slippery Slope to Genocide I. William Zartman, Mark Anstey, Paul Meerts, 2011-05-01 Genocide results from the culmination of conflicts over identity A group of people that feels threatened by extinction resorts to genocide as a pathologically defensive reaction This poses a security dilemma that can only be broken by quelling the feelings of threat and fear that prompt mass violence In order to prevent genocide it is essential to understand the internal dynamics of identity conflict It is also important to intervene at the early stages of identity conflict the parties involved require external help to ease tensions In this volume noted thinkers and practitioners of conflict management who hail from ten different countries present ideas on how to prevent identity issues from causing fear and escalating into genocide They focus on measures for handling the internal dynamics of parties facing identity conflicts as well as considerations for arranging external assistance Contributors address the problem of outbidders actors whose non conciliatory attitudes put them in positions of leadership in their identity groups Since political extremism and violence can signal resolve and commitment to a group cause moderates give way to hardliners Spoilers who believe that peace undermines their interests and power also play a key role in the dynamics of conflicts Careful attention is necessary to select appropriate third parties who can pull conflicting parties off the course of conflict The authors discuss the concepts and practices involved in changing structures and attitudes to ease tensions as well as the measures interveners must take to work in the midst of conflicting groups

Opportunities Missed, Opportunities Seized Bruce W. Jentleson, 2000 The basic logic of preventive diplomacy is unassailable Act early to prevent disputes from escalating reduce tensions that could lead to war deal with today's conflicts before they become tomorrow's crises Yet as we look at the record of these first years of the post Cold War era it is quite mixed There have been some preventive diplomacy successes and opportunities that have been seized by major powers and international organizations to help preserve and protect the peace But there also have been other opportunities that have been missed with some of the century's most deadly conflicts the result This study examines ten major post Cold War cases including Croatia Bosnia Rwanda the Baltics Russia Ukraine Macedonia and North Korea to assess the key factors contributing to both the success and failure of preventive diplomacy The method of case study analysis employed is based on the work of Alexander L George Authors include both leading academics and prominent policy officials with first hand knowledge
