Regionalism In The Canadian Community 1867 1967:

Regionalism in the Canadian Community, 1867-1967 Canadian Historical Association, Centennial Commission (Canada), Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada, 1969 For the general reader Regionalism in the Canadian Community, 1867-1967. Edited by Mason Wade Canadian Historical Association, 1969 Canadian History: Confederation to the present Martin Brook Taylor, Doug Owram, 1994-01-01 In these two volumes which replace the Reader's Guide to Canadian History experts provide a select and critical guide to historical writing about pre and post Confederation Canada with an emphasis on the most recent scholarship Cover Ethnic Relations in Canada Raymond Breton, 2005-10-13 The introduction by Jeffrey Reitz focuses on the evolution of Breton's distinctive institutional framework which both extends and in some ways alters John Porter's classic analysis in The Vertical Mosaic Reitz shows how Breton's original concept of institutional completeness has been extended to provide a comprehensive framework for the institutional analysis of inter ethnic relations creating a unified theoretical structure that has reshaped the study of inter ethnic relations in Canada and points toward a future research agenda Regionalism in the Canadian Community Canadian Historical Association, 1967 Newfoundland in the North Atlantic World, 1929-1949 Peter Neary, 1988-12-01 Neary draws material from both public and private sources in the United Kingdom Canada the United States and Newfoundland Following a brief summary of major developments in Newfoundland before 1929 he gives an account of the tumultuous events that led to the demise of responsible self government and the establishment of a British appointed Commission of Government in 1934 He details and evaluates the major policies of the commission during three distinct phases the continuing hard times of the 1930s the boom years of the Second World War and the period of post war adjustment The reasons for constitutional change are examined and Neary explains clearly why Newfoundland became a province of Canada in 1949 Through a fine blending of domestic and international history he reveals the intricate connections between events in Newfoundland and in the rest of the North Atlantic World providing a balanced view which takes into account constitutional political economic and social developments He acknowledges the role of British Canadian and American policymakers in determining the course of events in Newfoundland and illuminates the role that Newfoundlanders themselves played at a critical time in their history

Mason Wade, Acadia and Quebec Naomi Griffiths, 1991-12-15 Essays written by the controversial but significant historian Mason Wade provide his last important work on the Maritimes Also included is a biography of Wade an analysis of his enduring importance as an historian and a select bibliography Immigration and Settlement, 1870-1939 Gregory P. Marchildon, 2009 Immigration and Settlement 1870 1939 includes twenty articles organized under the following topics the Opening of the Prairie West First Nations and the Policy of Containment Patterns of Settlement and Ethnic Relations and Identity in the New West The second volume in the History of the Prairie West Series Immigration and Settlement includes chapters on early immigration patterns including transportation routes and ethnic blocks as well as the policy of containing

First Nations on reserves Other chapters grapple with the various identities preferences and prejudices of settlers and their complex relationships with each other as well as the larger polity

Newfoundland in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries James Hiller, Peter Neary, 1980-12-15 The first comprehensive history of Newfoundland was published in 1793 but a centenary and a half passed before the first university course in the history of the island was offered there During the past fifteen years there has been growing activity in the subject This volume is the work of six scholars who have either studied or taught at the Memorial University of Newfoundland Some have done both The book has two broad aims First to point out the major themes of modern Newfoundland history currently being examined and to offer a number of new interpretations of economic and political development in the last two centuries Second to supplement the standard works that are readily available to students In some areas it provides additional details in others it bridges wide gaps The themes considered include an introduction to the writing of Newfoundland history the transition from the purely maritime economy of the nineteenth century to the mixed oceanic and inland resource economy of the twentieth and the difficulties this involved the decline of the traditional cod fishery in the nineteenth century Newfoundland's rejection of confederation in 1896 the limitations imposed by the fisheries agreements Britain negotiated with France and the United States the consequences of the decision to reject confederation and diversify the local economy the growth of the Fisherman's Protective Union the political atmosphere of the 1920s the party politics in the post confederation period and finally the collapse of Newfoundland's oldest industry the saltfish trade and the province's integration into the North American economy This is a book intended for both regional specialists and general students of Canadian history It provides a valuable resource about a province of rapidly growing importance
