Regulating Business Ross Cranston, 1979-05-03 Handbook of Research on International Consumer Law Geraint G. Howells, I. Ramsay, Thomas Wilhelmsson, 2010 This is a truly international effort and one with a strong commitment to human rights by the highly reputable authors coming from different jurisdictions The many facets of today's consumer law are presented to the reader including developing countries a fascinating effort in a dynamically emerging field of law We are comprehensively informed about such broad and butter areas as advertising unfair terms consumer guarantees product safety and liability consumer credit and redress But traditional consumer law concepts and remedies are facing challenges in more complex areas like services of general internet where consumers and private users should enjoy equal access to universal services with the internet where speed must not be a pretext to eliminate standards of fair dealing with risky investment services under the problematic paradigm shift from investor protection to investor confidence A book to read to think about to work with for everybody interested in the future of consumer markets and law in a time of economic crisis Norbert Reich University of Bremen Germany This is a richly interesting collection of essays written by leading names in the field It offers a thoroughly reliable survey of key tensions and challenges in modern consumer law and brilliantly combines thematic overview with detailed analysis It will stimulate comparative thinking it will provide a source of information and it will be welcomed by consumer law scholars all over the world Stephen Weatherill University of Oxford UK Consumer law and policy has emerged in the last half century as a major policy concern for all nations This Handbook of original contributions provides an international and comparative analysis of central issues in consumer law and policy in developed and developing economies The Handbook encompasses questions of both social policy and effective business regulation Many of the issues are common to all countries and are becoming increasingly globalised due to the growth in international trade and technological developments such as the Internet The authors provide a broad coverage of both substantive topics and institutional questions concerning optimal approaches to enforcement and the role of class actions in consumer policy It also includes comparative insights into the influential EU and US models of consumer law and relates consumer law to contemporary trends in human rights law Written by a carefully selected group of international experts this text represents an authoritative resource for understanding contemporary and future developments in consumer law This Handbook will provide students researchers and policymakers with an insight to the main policy debates in each context and provide models of legal regulation to assist in the evaluation of laws and the development of consumer law and policy Business Regulation and Public Policy André Nijssen, John Hudson, Christoph Müller, Kees van Paridon, R. Thurik, 2008-12-03 For years businesses have complained about the costs of regulatory compliance On the other hand society is becoming increasingly aware of the environmental safety health financial and other risks of business activity Government oversight seems to be one of the answers to safeguard against these risks But how can we deregulate and regulate without jeopardizing our public goals or acting as a brake on economic growth Many instruments are available to assess the effects of laws regulating business including the regulatory impact assessment RIA which contains cost benefit analysis cost effectiveness analysis risk analysis and cost assessments This book argues that public goals will be achieved more effectively if compliance costs of the enterprises are as low as possible Highlighting examples from a wide spectrum of industries and countries the authors propose a new kind of RIA the business impact assessment BIA designed to improve both business and public policy decision making

The Politics of Regulation in the UK Daniel Fitzpatrick, 2016-09-30 This book explores the discourse of regulatory crisis in the UK and examines why despite the increasing contestation of the principles underpinning the regulatory state its institutions and practices continue to be firmly embedded within the governance of the British state It considers its implications for our understanding of the contemporary nature of the British state and to the study of regulation which is no longer confined to the domain of low politics populated by technocrats but is scrutinised by elected politicians and the subject of the front pages rather than the financial pages The author sets the British regulatory tradition in a wider context both spatially in terms of the challenges presented by Europeanisation and temporally critically analysing the process of crisis construction in the narratives of neoliberalism and participatory democracy in the contemporary era

Handbook of Research on International Consumer Law, Second Edition Geraint Howells, Iain Ramsay, 2018-07-27 Consumer law and policy continues to be of great concern to both national and international regulatory bodies and the second edition of the Handbook of Research on International Consumer Law provides an updated international and comparative analysis of the central legal and policy issues in both developed and developing economies

The Forthcoming EC Directive on Unfair Commercial Practices Hugh Collins, 2004-01-01 To encourage cross border transactions in the Single Market of the European Community the Commission has proposed general framework legislation to set general standards that forbid unfair marketing practices towards consumers thereby increasing consumer confidence when deciding whether or not to shop abroad in the Community either in person or through modern methods of electronic purchasing through the Internet The essays in this volume critically examine the proposed Directive that prohibits unfair commercial practices and in particular they consider the potential legal and economic implications of a legal duty to trade fairly in the context of general contract law the protection of consumers and the needs of competition policy The distinguished authors of these essays from Finland Germany Italy The Netherlands Spain and the United Kingdom explain the different approaches of national legal systems to the legal regulation of marketing practices and assess the compatibility of the proposed Directive with national law and its likely success in achieving the promotion of trade in the Single Market About the author Hugh Collins is Professor of English Law at the London School of Economics He studied law at Oxford and Harvard He has published extensively in the field of contract law including The Law of Contract 4th ed London Butterworths 2003 and Regulating Contracts Oxford Oxford University Press 1999

The Making of Consumer Law and Policy in Europe Hans-W. Micklitz, 2021-11-04 This book

analyses the founding years of consumer law and consumer policy in Europe It combines two dimensions the making of national consumer law and the making of European consumer law and how both are intertwined The chapters on Germany Italy the Nordic countries and the United Kingdom serve to explain the economic and the political background which led to different legal and policy approaches in the then old Member States from the 1960s onwards The chapter on Poland adds a different layer the one of a former socialist country with its own consumer law and how joining the EU affected consumer law at the national level The making of European consumer law started in the 1970s rather cautiously but gradually the European Commission took an ever stronger position in promoting not only European consumer law but also in supporting the building of the European Consumer Organisation BEUC the umbrella organisation of the national consumer bodies The book unites the early protagonists who were involved in the making of consumer law in Europe Guido Alpa Ludwig Kr mer Ewa Letowska Hans W Micklitz Klaus Tonner Iain Ramsay and Thomas Wilhelmsson supported by the younger generation Aneta Wiewi rowska Domagalska Mateusz Grochowski and Koen Docter who reconstructs the history of BEUC Niklas Olsen and Thomas Roethe analyse the construction of this policy field from a historical and sociological perspective This book offers a unique opportunity to understand a legal and political field that of consumer law and policy which plays a fundamental role in our contemporary societies The Oxford Handbook of Regulation Robert Baldwin, Martin Cave, Martin Lodge, 2012-07-19

examples to illustrate situations and concepts Regulating Food-borne Illness Richard Hyde, 2015-08-27 When faced with tackling food borne illness regulators have a number of competing goals They must investigate in order to discover the source of the illness Once the source is identified they must take action to prevent further cases of illness occurring Finally once the illness is under control they may wish to take enforcement action against those responsible Regulating Food Borne Illness uses interviews and documentary analysis to examine the actions of regulators and considers how they balance these three tasks Central to the regulators role is the collection of information Without information about the source control or enforcement action cannot be taken Investigation must therefore take place to produce the necessary information Utilising theoretical frameworks drawn from regulation and biosecurity Regulating Food Borne Illness shows that control is prioritised and that investigatory steps are chosen in order to ensure that the information necessary for control rather than enforcement is collected This has the effect of reducing the possibility that enforcement action can be taken The difficulty of evidence gathering and case building in food borne illness cases is exposed and the author considers the methods aimed at reducing the difficulty of bringing successful enforcement action
