Capturing the Political Imagination Diane Stone, 2013-01-11 Think tanks are proliferating Although they are outside of government many of these policy research institutes are perceived to influence political thinking and public policy This book develops ideas about policy networks epistemic communities and policy learning in relation to think tanks

Regulating for the Future Carol Tucker Foreman, 1991-06-19 Explores several key issues of federal regulation that are likely to emerge as central to the health and growth of a globally competitive domestic economy in the 1990s the use of market type mechanisms to achieve environmental protection objectives how much and what kind of competition should be permitted in the U S telecommunications market in a context of the globalization of world communications systems what consideration should go into assessing the adequacy of the existing regulatory framework for the rapidly developing field of biotechnology research and development and the question of what new benefit requirements the federal government might impose on private companies and how the desirability of this approach versus more direct social provision of services should be assessed This volume results from a new positive interest in how the federal government is regulating and what it is regulating as the U S economy and its businesses workers and consumers becomes increasingly more integrated into a broader world market for goods and services Contributors Carol Tucker Foreman Maureen S Steinbruner Peter Kahn Thomas O McGarity Daniel J B Mitchell Paula Newberg and Robert N Stavins

The Future of Financial Regulation Iain G MacNeil,Justin O'Brien,2010-03-12 The Future of Financial Regulation is an edited collection of papers presented at a major conference at the University of Glasgow in spring 2009 co sponsored by the Economic and Social Research Council World Economy and Finance Programme and the the Australian Research Council Governance Research Network It draws together a variety of different perspectives on the international financial crisis which began in August 2007 and later turned into a more widespread economic crisis following the collapse of Lehman Brothers in the autumn of 2008 Spring 2009 was in many respects the nadir since valuations in financial markets had reached their low point and crisis management rather than regulatory reform was the main focus of attention The conference and book were deliberately framed as an attempt to re focus attention from the former to the latter The first part of the book focuses on the context of the crisis discussing the general characteristics of financial crises and the specific influences that were at work this time round The second part focuses more specifically on regulatory techniques and practices implicated in the crisis noting in particular an over reliance on the capacity of regulators and financial institutions to manage risk and on the capacity of markets to self correct The third part focuses on the role of governance and ethics in the crisis and in particular the need for a common ethical framework to underpin governance practices and to provide greater clarity in the design of accountability mechanisms The final part focuses on the trajectory of regulatory reform noting the considerable potential for change as a result of the role of the state in the rescue and recuperation of the financial system and stressing the need for fundamental re appraisal of business and regulatory models
