Regulating International Business Beyond Liberalization:

Regulating International Business Ruth Mayne, Sol Picciotto, 1999 Regulating Multinationals in Developing Countries Edwin Mujih, 2016-04-08 Edwin Mujih explores the difficulties associated with regulating multinational companies operating in developing countries with a particular focus on extractive industries The author highlights the need to establish an international legally binding framework to ensure that multinationals operate in a socially responsible manner to protect local communities and the environment Edwin Mujih's analysis reveals that the existing mechanisms for controlling the behaviour of huge multinational entities are of normative force only that these are particularly inadequate and that the notion of corporate social responsibility is only meaningful where behaviour can be legally regulated Regulating Multinationals in Developing Countries features a study of the Chad and Cameroon Oil and pipeline project which highlights the problems arising in countries that have neither the capacity nor the will to effectively regulate those operating within their borders The author has evaluated compliance by the parties with their social and environmental obligations He has found that despite controversy surrounding inadequate regulation of this project in its incipient stages the system that was put in place following huge opposition from the affected communities and from NGOs is worthy of attention and could stand as a model for similar projects elsewhere This first title in Gower's Corporate Social Responsibility Series to approach CSR from a legal perspective provides insight not just into the complexity surrounding efforts to regulate multinationals operating in countries with weak regulatory regimes but also into the fundamental nature of multinational corporations and the debate about different notions of CSR itself The Multinational Firm Glenn Morgan, Peer Hull Kristensen, Richard Whitley, 2003 In contrast to the traditional view of multinational firms as cohesive rational actors maximizing the use of resources across national boundaries the contributors to this volume argue that they are complex social arenas where competing groups draw on resources from their own socially embedded locations in developing new transnational social relationships As firms seek to manage across national and institutional boundaries they stretch their existing capacities and routines and develop new sets of transnational social relationships through different groups competing and cooperating These processes occur at a number of levels which are explored in different empirical settings Firstly at the level of governance multinational firms may develop conflicts between investors from different national contexts e.g. between the arms length orientation of Anglo Saxon institutional investors and the more committed orientation of investors in certain European and Asian contexts The tension between opening the firm up for foreign investors in order to have access to more and cheaper capital and the consequent effects on management strategy is explored in a number of chapters Secondly at the level of coordinating activities across different sites multinationals may encourage competition between plants in different countries as well as seeking to transfer best practices The result may be pressure on managers and employees in certain plants to give up traditional practices and employment rights Thirdly multinational firms operate in environments where other forms of coordinating international business activity may also occur e.g. cartels or the creation of international regulatory activity. They therefore compete for the regulatory space in complex political environments that will enable them to prosper.

Management and International Review Shirley J. Daniel, Wolf Reitsperger, 2013-06-29 This special issue is devoted to the topic of globalization, one of the most emotionally charged terms in international business today. While globalization is not really a new phenomenon, advances in transportation and communications technology, as well as decreasing trade barriers, have increased the pace and magnitude of cross-border interactions, bringing them to the forefront of discussion for scholars.

Business, Human Rights and Transitional Justice Irene Pietropaoli, 2020-05-07 This book considers the efficacy of transitional justice mechanisms in response to corporate human rights abuses. Corporations and other business enterprises often operate in countries affected by conflict or repressive regimes. As such, they may become involved in human rights violations and crimes under international law, either as the main perpetrators or as accomplices by aiding and abetting government actors. Transitional justice mechanisms, such as trials, truth commissions, and reparations, have usually focused on abuses by state authorities or by non-state actors directly connected to the state, such as paramilitary groups. Innovative transitional justice mechanisms have, however, now started to address corporate accountability for human rights abuses and crimes under international law and have attempted to provide redress for victims. This book analyzes this development, assessing how transitional justice can provide remedies for corporate human rights abuses and crimes under international law. Canvassing a broad range of literature relating to international criminal law mechanisms, regional human rights systems, domestic courts, truth and reconciliation commissions, and land restitution programmes, this book evaluates the limitations and potential of each mechanism. Acknowledging the limited extent to which transitional justice has been able to effectively tackle the role of corporations in human rights violations and international crimes, this book nevertheless points the way towards greater engagement with corporate accountability as part of transitional justice. A valuable contribution to the literature on transitional justice and on business and human rights, this book will appeal to scholars, researchers, and PhD students in these areas, as well as lawyers and other practitioners working on corporate accountability and transitional justice.

The Oxford Handbook of International Investment Law Peter Muchlinski, Federico Ortino, Christoph Schreuer, 2008-06-26 The Oxford Handbooks series is a major new initiative in academic publishing. Each volume offers an authoritative and state-of-the-art survey of current thinking and research in a particular subject area. Specially commissioned essays from leading international figures in the discipline give critical examinations of the progress and direction of debates. Oxford Handbooks provide scholars and graduate students with compelling new perspectives upon a wide range of subjects in the humanities and social sciences. The Oxford Handbook of International Investment Law aims to provide the first truly exhaustive account of the current state and future development of this important and topical field of international law. The Handbook is divided into three main parts. Part One deals with fundamental conceptual issues. Part Two deals with the main substantive areas of law.

and Part Three deals with the major procedural issues arising out of the settlement of international investment disputes The book has a policy oriented introduction setting the more technical chapters that follow in their policy environment within which contemporary norms for international foreign investment law are evolving The Handbook concludes with a chapter written by the editors to highlight the major conclusions of the collection to identify trends in the existing law and to look forward to the future development of this field

Civilizing Globalization Richard Sandbrook, 2003-01-09 Discusses the many facets of globalization in easy to understand language

Globalization and International Investment Fiona Beveridge, 2017-07-05 This volume brings together a broad range of articles on international law and foreign investment which together provide a contemporary overview of the diverse range of issues and perspectives which continue to exercise policy makers and scholars alike Central to this collection is the tension between market oriented reforms on the one hand raising issues of market access and protection of investors and corporate social responsibility discourses on the other raising concerns about environmental protection and respect for human and labour rights Regional perspectives on these issues reveal differing priorities and approaches

Global Regulation of Foreign Direct Investment Sherif Seid, 2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2002 After the failure of the Multilateral Agreement on Investment MAI the world does not have a global investment agreement that would regulate FDI A global investment agreement dealing with FDI would clearly fill a large gap in the network of regulatory measures governing the world economy Other attempts had been made prior to the MAI to address this problem but all have failed so far The main reason for such failures has always been the lack of compromise in the positions held by the major stakeholders This book analyses the pros and cons of these opposing positions and uses them as a basis for forging a hybrid model called Regulated Openness

European Yearbook of International Economic Law 2016 Marc Bungenberg, Christoph Herrmann, Markus Krajewski, Jörg Philipp Terhechte, 2016-07-16 Volume 7 of the EYIEL focusses on critical perspectives of international economic law Recent protests against free trade agreements such as the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership TTIP remind us that international economic law has always been a politically and legally contested field This volume collects critical contributions on trade investment financial and other subfields of international economic law from scholars who have shaped this debate for many years The critical contributions to this volume are challenged and sometimes rejected by commentators who have been invited to be critical with the critics The result is a unique collection of critical essays accompanied by alternative and competing views on some of the most fundamental topics of international economic law In its section on regional developments EYIEL 7 addresses recent megaregional and plurilateral trade and investment agreements and negotiations Short insights on various aspects of the Transpacific Partnership TPP and its sister TTIP are complemented with comments on other developments including the African Tripartite FTA and the negotiations on a plurilateral Trade in Services Agreement TiSA Further sections address recent WTO and investment case law as well as recent developments concerning the IMF UNCTAD and the WCO The volume
