

Relational Epistemologies for a Living Planet

How do we go about arriving at “truths”, together? Not “timeless” truths, but useful truths, situated ones, something that helps this group, this organization, this community, find its own way forward? As a practitioner of group facilitation, I have developed certain practical knowledge about this; as a theorist and researcher-in-training, I have begun to explore long-standing questions about how our conventional cognitive habits might create difficulties for this work. In this essay, I will be exploring a variety of academic theorists who question our ingrained cultural assumptions about argumentation, while also pointing to some useful alternatives.

Forty years ago, in Metaphors We Live By, cognitive linguist George Lakoff and philosopher Mark Johnson invited us to become more conscious of our cultural patterns by observing how arguments, one aspect of our society’s search for truth, are organized through the metaphor of “war” (he “attacked” my position, she “defended” her thesis):

ARGUMENT is partially structured, understood, performed, and talked about in terms of WAR. [...] The language of argument is not poetic, fanciful, or rhetorical; it is literal. We talk about arguments that way because we conceive of them that way – and we act according to the way we conceive things. (1980, p. 5)¹

Lakoff and Johnson point out that even “rational argument”, the specialized subset of argument that prevails in the worlds of academia, law, and diplomacy, is still structured by war. Ostensibly restricted to stating premises, citing evidence, and drawing logical conclusions, “there is still a position to be established and defended, you can win or lose, you have an opponent whose position you attack and destroy and whose argument you try to shoot down” (p. 64). Their examples show how there is often present, in a subtle form, “the ‘irrational’ and ‘unfair’ tactics that rational arguments in their ideal form are supposed to transcend” (p. 65).

On the whole, academic culture as a whole still lacks a coherent alternative to the culture of argumentation. Here is the experience of AnaLouise Keating, multicultural women’s and gender studies professor:

¹ Lakoff and Johnson’s work on the metaphorical foundations of language was part of their invitation to move beyond the “myth of objectivism” and the “myth of subjectivism” to “the experientialist alternative” where “understanding emerges from interaction” (1980, p. 230).

Epistemologies and Challenging Privilege Sophie Bourgault, Maggie FitzGerald, Fiona Robinson, 2024 Care ethics first emerged as an attempt to decenter ethics feminist scholars like Carol Gilligan argued that women s moral experiences were not reflected in the dominant masculinist approaches to ethics which were centered on a rational disembodied atomistic moral subject Care ethics challenged this model by positing ethics as relational contextualized embodied and realized through practices rather than principles Over the past decades many care ethics scholars have sought to further this project by considering care politically and epistemologically in relation to various intersecting hierarchies of power and knowledge This book advances this project by discussing the ways care ethics contributes to the decentering of dominant epistemologies and to the challenging of privilege and by considering how to decenter care ethics itself via an encounter with non Western philosophical traditions and alternative epistemologies Written by scholars from different countries disciplines and intellectual traditions the volume offers original care ethics contributions on epistemic injustice privileged irresponsibility ecofeminism settler colonialism social movements such as BLM and various racialized and gendered inequities tied to care work

Theory and Practice of Dialogical Community Development Peter Westoby, Gerard Dowling, 2013-07-18 This book proposes that community development has been increasingly influenced and co-opted by a modernist soulless rational philosophy reducing it to a shallow technique for solving community problems In contrast this dialogical approach re-maps the ground of community development practice within a frame of ideas such as dialogue hospitality and depth For the first time community development practitioners are provided with an accessible understanding of dialogue and its relevance to their practice exploring the contributions of internationally significant thinkers such as P Freire M Buber D Bohm and H G Gadamer J Derrida G Esteva and R Sennett What makes the book distinctive is that first it identifies a dialogical tradition of community development and considers how such a tradition shapes practice within contemporary contexts and concerns economic social political cultural and ecological Second the book contrasts such an approach with technical and instrumental approaches to development that fail to take complex systems seriously Third the approach links theory to practice through a combination of storytelling and theory reflection ensuring that readers are drawn into a practice theory that they feel increasingly confident has been tried and tested in the world over the past 25 years

Sociological Theory and the Capability Approach Spiros Gangas, 2019-10-10 Sociological Theory and the Capability Approach connects normative strands of sociological theory to the fusion of ethics and economics proposed by Amartya Sen and Martha Nussbaum's capability approach Spanning classical Hegel Marx Durkheim Scheler Weber and contemporary debates Parsons Giddens Luhmann it identifies areas that bridge the current gap between sociology and capability approach It thus builds on explanatory and normative concerns shared by both traditions Engaging readers from sociology and capability approach Spiros Gangas suggests that the proposed dialogue should be layered along the main areas of value theory economy and society extending this inquiry into the normative meaning attached to being human To this end the book reconstructs the notion of agency along the tracks of Nussbaum's central human capabilities considering also alienation and the sociology of emotions It concludes by addressing the capability approach through the lens of social institutions before it takes up the challenge of ideological fundamentalism and how it can be effectively confronted by capability approach This original book provides a fresh perspective on capability approach as it embeds it in the rich pool of sociological theory's accomplishments As an exercise in theoretical and normative convergence it will be required reading for academics and students in social theory cultural theory philosophy and human development studies
