Reviewing Romanticism:

Reviewing Romanticism Robin Jarvis, Philip W. Martin, 1992-05-13 This collection of essays by leading and new British scholars demonstrates the different ways in which Romanticism is currently being revalued and reconceived No longer are scholars working within the constraints of the old canon which insisted on the division of the central and the marginal for new Romanticism is being realised as a wider range of cultural activity unconfined by genre gender class rhetoric or style

Fulford, 2002-01-11 Expectation of the millennium was widespread in English society at the end of the eighteenth century The essays in this volume explore how exactly this expectation shaped and was shaped by the literature art and politics of the period we now call romantic An expanded and rehistoricized canon of writers and artists is assembled a group united by a common tendency to use figurations of the millennium to interrogate and transform the worlds in which they lived and moved Coleridge Cowper Blake and Byron are placed in new contexts created by original research into the artistic and political

Romanticism and the Gothic

Michael Gamer,2000-09-04 This is the first full length study to examine the links between high Romantic literature and what has often been thought of as a merely popular genre the Gothic Michael Gamer offers a sharply focused analysis of how and why Romantic writers drew on Gothic conventions whilst at the same time denying their influence in order to claim critical respectability He shows how the reception of Gothic literature including its institutional and commercial recognition as a form of literature played a fundamental role in the development of Romanticism as an ideology In doing so he examines the early history of the Romantic movement and its assumptions about literary value and the politics of reading writing and reception at the end of the eighteenth century As a whole the book makes an original contribution to our understanding of genre tracing the impact of reception marketing and audience on its formation

British Travel Writers in Europe

1750-1800 Katherine Turner,2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2001 Hundreds of European travelogues produced by British travellers between 1750 and 1800 remain out of sight in most libraries and have generally been out of print since the 18th century While many people with a working knowledge of the 18th century are familiar with works including Sterne s A Sentimental Journey and Smollett s Travels through France and Italy those produced by less literary travellers are largely unknown This study aims to recreate the world of 18th century travel writing in order to illuminate its central role in shaping Britain s emerging sense of national identity an identity which proves to be more complex an less homogeneous than some cultural and historical studies would suggest The author finds that the developing discourse of national character is bound up with questions of gender national and authorial virtue are projected in terms of appropriately gendered behaviour for male and female travel writers alike In turn gender intersects with class most obviously in the tendency to denigrate aristocratic travellers as effeminate and celebrate the more manly activities of the middle class traveller These then national identity authorship and gender are the central preoccupations of the study

Romanticism and Women Poets

Harriet Kramer Linkin,Stephen C. Behrendt,2021-10-21

One of the most exciting developments in Romantic studies in the past decade has been the rediscovery and repositioning of women poets as vital and influential members of the Romantic literary community This is the first volume to focus on women poets of this era and to consider how their historical reception challenges current conceptions of Romanticism With a broad revisionist view the essays examine the poetry these women produced what the poets thought about themselves and their place in the contemporary literary scene and what the recovery of their works says about current and past theoretical frameworks The contributors focus their attention on such poets as Felicia Hemans Letitia Elizabeth Landon Charlotte Smith Anna Barbauld Mary Lamb and Fanny Kemble and argue for a significant rethinking of Romanticism as an intellectual and cultural phenomenon Grounding their consideration of the poets in cultural social intellectual and aesthetic concerns the authors contest the received wisdom about Romantic poetry its authors its themes and its audiences Some of the essays examine the ways in which many of the poets sought to establish stable positions and identities for themselves while others address the changing nature over time of the reputations of these women poets Romantic Feuds Kim

Wheatley, 2016-04-08 Romantic writers such as Robert Southey and Samuel Taylor Coleridge aspired to rise above the so called age of personality a new culture of politicized print gossip and personal attacks Nevertheless Southey Coleridge and other Romantic era figures such as Leigh Hunt William Hazlitt Sydney Owenson and the explorer John Ross became enmeshed in lively feuds with the major periodicals of the day the Edinburgh Review and the Quarterly Review Kim Wheatley focuses on feuds from the second and third decades of the nineteenth century suggesting that by this time the vituperative rhetoric of the Edinburgh and the Quarterly had developed into what Coleridge called a habit of malignity Attending to the formal strategies of the reviewers surprisingly creative prose she traces how her chosen feuds take on lives of their own branching off into other print media including the weekly press and monthly magazines Ultimately Wheatley shows these hostile exchanges incorporated literary genres and Romantic themes such as the idealized poetic self the power of the supernatural and the quest for the sublime By turning episodes of print warfare into stories of transfiguration the feuds thus unexpectedly contributed to the emergence of Romanticism 'All the World's a Stage' Charlene Bunnell, 2013-12-16 This book examines the often tragic and nearly always disabling metaphor of the theatrum mundi world as stage as it plays itself out in the characters of Mary Shelley's novels Romantic Review, 1929 The Modern Language Review, 1922 The Encyclopedia of Romantic Literature, 3 Volume Set Frederick Burwick, Nancy Moore Goslee, Diane Long
