Revising Fiction:

Revising Fiction, Fact, and Faith Nathaniel Goldberg, Chris Gavalier, 2020-07-01 This book addresses how our revisionary practices account for relations between texts and how they are read. It offers an overarching philosophy of revision concerning works of fiction, fact, and faith, revealing unexpected insights about the philosophy of language, the metaphysics of fact and fiction, and the history and philosophy of science and religion. Using the novels of J. R. R. Tolkien as exemplars, the authors introduce a fundamental distinction between the purely physical and the linguistic aspects of texts. They then demonstrate how two competing theories of reference, descriptivism and referentialism, are instead constitutive of a single semantic account needed to explain all kinds of revision. The authors also propose their own metaphysical foundations of fiction and fact. The next part of the book brings the authors' philosophy of revision into dialogue with Thomas Kuhn's famous analysis of factual and specifically scientific change. It also discusses a complex episode in the history of paleontology, demonstrating how scientific and popular texts can diverge over time. Finally, the authors expand their philosophy of revision to religious texts, arguing that rather than being distinct, such texts are always read as other kinds that faith tends to be more important as evidence for religious texts than for others, and that the latter explains why religious communities tend to have remarkable historical longevity. Revising Fiction, Fact, and Faith offers a unique and comprehensive account of the philosophy of revision. It will be of interest to a wide range of scholars and advanced students working in philosophy of language, metaphysics, philosophy of literature, literary theory and criticism, and history and philosophy of science and religion.

Revising Fiction David Madden, 1988 Revising Fiction Kirt Hickman, 2009 The comprehensive and practical guide to self-editing. Cover Revising Reality Chris Gavalier, Nat Goldberg, 2024-05-30 The past is fixed; what happened happened. But our descriptions of that past are in constant flux, creating branching networks of contradictory accounts more complex than any fictional franchise. Revising Reality uses pop culture and media concepts of revision to untangle our real-world histories with startlingly revelatory results. Novels, comics, films, and TV shows can continue previous events, sequels reinterpret events, retcons, or restart events, remakes, and audiences can ignore any of these revisions. Rejecting drawing on these four kinds of revision derived from franchises such as Star Wars, Harry Potter, The Lord of the Rings, and Marvel Comics, Chris Gavalier and Nat Goldberg make sense of the stories we tell about a remarkable range of actual events, including scientific discoveries, Supreme Court cases, historical moments, folk heroes, and even trans names and human memory. They ask: What happened to the original green-scaled dinosaurs after scientists decided dinosaurs had multi-colored feathers? When overturning Roe v. Wade, did the Supreme Court end the right to abortion, or did the Court claim that the right of the previous half-century never existed? Since Ronald Reagan increased taxes, expanded government, and championed amnesty for undocumented immigrants, who is the Ronald Reagan whom today's conservatives champion as a model president? When a trans person comes out, as trans has their gender changed, or has their gender remained consistent? Are our memories accounts of real events or some kind or kinds of revision And if our memories are in flux what does that say about our memory dependent identities Revising Reality answers these and so many more questions providing surprising new tools for explaining the world and our relationship to it Rewriting David Michael Kaplan,2001-08 This work introduces readers to the author's brand of revising fiction a process in which a story's words structure even its very meaning may change as it grows stronger Through every stage of the writing process the author provides strategies and criteria to help pinpoint the problems in your work and fix them He looks at sacred first ideas slow starts out of sequence events imprecise language inflated imagery weak sentence structure insufficient dialogue action and description In addition to illustrating his points with examples from contemporary writers he traces the evolution of three of his own stories through drafts to final versions
