Revisualizing Boundaries A Plurilingual:

Revisualizing Boundaries Lachman M Khubchandani, 1997-02-14 This book probes the contours of plurality in studies of language. The author's innovative approach places the boundaries between languages in a fluid transactional state. Basing his study on the South Asian region, Lachman M Khubchandani provides a rich understanding of the composite plural ethos evolved among the heterogeneous peoples who inhabit the region. Revisualizing Boundaries Lachman Mulchand Khubchandani, 1997-01-01 Lucidly Written This Book Will Be Of Interest To All Those Involved With Sociolinguistics Linguistic Theory Cultural Studies And Communications In A Plural Setting The Routledge Handbook of Plurilingual Language Education Enrica Piccardo, Aline Germain-Rutherford, Geoff Lawrence, 2021-09-21 The Routledge Handbook of Plurilingual Language Education is the first comprehensive publication on plurilingualism offering a multidimensional reflection on the nature, scope and potential of plurilingualism in language education and society. Authored by a range of internationally recognized experts, the Handbook provides an overview of key perspectives on plurilingualism in a complementary range of fields. After a comprehensive introduction to the concept itself, 24 chapters are organized in six parts, each examining plurilingualism through a different lens. The Handbook spans historical, philosophical and sociological dimensions, examines cognitive and neuroscientific implications and the limitations of boundaries before moving to a pragmatic perspective. How is plurilingual language education developing in different contexts around the world? How can it contribute to language revitalization? How can it be expected to develop in education, digital spaces and society as a whole? Written for an international audience, this handbook is an indispensable reference tool for scholars in education and applied linguistics, educators, graduate and post graduate students and policy makers. Disinventing and Reconstituting Languages Sinfree Makoni, Alastair Pennycook, 2007 This book questions assumptions about the nature of language. Looking at diverse contexts from sign languages in Indonesia to literacy practices in Brazil, the authors argue that unless we change and reconstitute the ways in which languages are taught and conceptualized, language studies will not be able to improve the social welfare of language users. Accessibility Denied. Understanding Inaccessibility and Everyday Resistance to Inclusion for Persons with Disabilities Hanna Egard, Kristofer Hansson, David Wästerfors, 2021-11-09 This book explores the societal resistance to accessibility for persons with disabilities and tries to set an example of how to study exclusion in a time when numerous policies promise inclusion. With 12 chapters organised in three parts, the book takes a comprehensive approach to accessibility, covering transport and communication, knowledge and education, law and organisation. Topics within a wide cross-disciplinary field are covered, including disability studies, social work, sociology, ethnology, social anthropology and history. The main example is Sweden with its implementation of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities within the context of the Nordic welfare state. By identifying and discussing persistent social and cultural conditions as well as recurring situations and interactions that nurture resistance to advancing accessibility despite various strong laws promoting it the book's conclusions are widely transferable. It argues for the value of alternating between methods, theoretical perspectives and datasets to explore how new arenas, resources and technologies cause new accessibility concerns and possibilities for persons living with impairments. We need to be able to follow actors closely to uncover how they feel, act and argue but also to connect to wider discursive and institutional patterns and systems. This book will be of interest to scholars and students of disability studies, social work, sociology, ethnology, social anthropology, political science and organisation studies.

Enacting English across Borders Raqib Chowdhury, Roby Marlina, 2014-09-18. This book houses contemporary theoretical and empirical studies by emergent researchers and scholars in the disciplines of ELT, Applied Linguistics and TESOL who address several newly emerged and emerging issues in the field from their own contexts, predominantly Asian settings. Each chapter in its own unique way challenges, unpacks and critiques existing misconceptions and pre-conceived assumptions of the use, learning and teaching of English in today's fluid and globalised postmodern era. While some contributors to the book have brought such issues to the forefront through a critical consideration of histories and policies, others have explored how English is enacted, practised, learned and/or taught across a wide range of settings in order to further illustrate the various manifestations of the worldwide expansion of the language. Together, the chapters of this book highlight the current discrepancies and inconsistencies in different areas of interest in the field of ELT and provide carefully considered suggestions on how to address these issues.

Reclaiming the Local in Language Policy and Practice A. Suresh

Canagarajah, 2005-01-15. This volume inserts the place of the local in theorizing about language policies and practices in applied linguistics. While the effects of globalization around the world are being discussed in such diverse circles as corporations, law firms and education, and while the spread of English has come to largely benefit those in positions of power, relatively little has been said about the impact of globalization at the local level, directly or indirectly. Reclaiming the Local in Language Policy and Practice is unique in focusing specifically on the outcomes of globalization in and among the communities affected by these changes. The authors make a case for why it is important for local social practices communicative conventions linguistic realities and knowledge paradigms to actively inform language policies and practices for classrooms and communities in specific contexts and to critically inform those pertaining to other communities Engaging with the dominant paradigms in the discipline of applied linguistics the chapters include research relating to second language acquisition sociolinguistics literacy and language planning The majority of chapters are case studies of specific contexts and communities focused on situations of language teaching Beyond their local contexts these studies are important for initiating discussion of their relevance for other different communities and contexts Taken together the chapters in this book approach the task of reclaiming and making space for the local by means of negotiating with the present and the global They illuminate the paradox that the local contains complex values of diversity multilingualism and plurality that can help to reconceive the multilingual society and education for postmodern times

Heteroglossia as Practice and Pedagogy Adrian Blackledge, Angela Creese, 2013-12-17 This volume presents evidence about how we understand communication in changing times and proposes that such understandings may contribute to the development of pedagogy for teaching and learning It expands current debates on multilingualism asking which signs are in use and in action and what are their social political and historical implications The volume's starting point is Bakhtin's heteroglossia a key concept in understanding the tensions conflicts and multiple voices within among and between those signs The chapters provide illuminating accounts of language practices as they bring into play both in practice and in pedagogy voices which index students localities social histories circumstances and identities The book documents the performance of linguistic repertoires in an era of profound social change caused by the shifting nature of nation states increased movement of people across territories and growing digital communication Our thinking on language and multilingualism is expanding rapidly Up until recently we have tended to regard languages as bounded entities and multilingualism has been understood as knowing more than one language Working with the concept of heteroglossia researchers are developing alternative perspectives that treat languages as sets of resources for expressing meaning that can be drawn on by speakers in communicatively productive ways in different contexts. These perspectives raise fundamental questions about the myriad of ways of knowing and using language. This collection brings together the contributions of many of the key researchers in the field. It will provide an authoritative reference point for contemporary interpretations of heteroglossia and valuable accounts of how translanguaging can be explored and exploited in the fields of education and cultural studies. Professor Constant Leung King's College London UK. From rap and hip hop to taxi cabs and from classrooms to interactive online learning environments each of the chapters in this volume written by well known and up and coming scholars provide fascinating accounts drawing on a wide diversity of rich descriptive data collected in heteroglossic contexts around the globe. Creese and Blackledge have brought together a compelling collection that builds upon and expands Bakhtin's construct of heteroglossia. These scholars help to move the field away from the view of languages as separate bounded system by providing detailed examples and expert analyses of the ways bilinguals and multilinguals draw upon their linguistic repertoires for effective and meaningful communication. Entanglements Sinfree Makoni,Unyierie Idem,Edwin Appah Dartey,Bassey E. Antia,2025-08-05 This book explores the ways in which language is understood in diverse contexts and how linguistic theories and the idea of language as an object fail to represent a reality that is inherently multi and trans The chapters tease out the way that an understanding of language as a social practice and the central role of the speaker s and their repertoire allows for a more nuanced interpretation of language in contexts ranging from English as an international neutral language in research and teaching to the importance of life trajectories and multilingualism in the development of theoretical perspectives The book offers a glimpse of a decolonial linguistics that recognizes the importance of entanglement between languages between the North and South and between the personal and the theoretical

Racing Translingualism provides both theoretical and pedagogical reconsiderations of the translingual approach to language diversity by addressing the intersections of race and translingualism This collection extends the disciplinary conversations about translingualism by foregrounding the role race and racism play in the construction and maintenance of language differences In doing so the contributors examine the co naturalization of race and language in order to theorize a race conscious translingual praxis The book begins by offering generative critiques of translingualism centering on the ways in which the approach's democratic orientation to language avoids issues of race language and power and appeals to colorblind racist tropes of equal opportunity Following these critiques contributors demonstrate the important intersections of race and translingualism by drawing upon voices typically marginalized by monolingual language ideologies and pedagogies Finally Racing Translingualism concludes by attending to the pedagogical implications of a race conscious translingual praxis in writing and literacy education Making the case for race conscious rather than colorblind theories and pedagogies Racing Translingualism offers a unique take on how translingualism is theorized and practiced and moves the field forward through its direct consideration of the links between language race and racism Contributors Lindsey Albracht Steven Alvarez Bethany Davila Tom Do Jaclyn Hilberg Bruce Horner Aja Martinez Esther Milu Stephanie Mosher Yasmine Romero Karen Rowan Rachael Shapiro Shawanda Stewart Brian Stone Victor Villanueva Missy Watson
