Transforming Residential Long-term Care in Oregon: Policy, Organizational and Local Market Factors Mauro L. Hernandez, 2006 Primary data include key informant interviews and a database of all Oregon AL RC and nursing facilities operating between 1986 and 2004 Secondary data came from state agencies CMS Form 372 reports and other public sources Data were analyzed to describe changes in Oregon's LTC environment state expenditures and bed supply trends Regression models were used to identify factors associated with county level AL supply over time

Aging and Public Health Gari Lesnoff-Caravaglia, 2001 As the population continues to age traditional concerns must expand from physical and biological concerns to incorporate social and behavioral perspectives Professionals in the fields of aging and public health need to assess the nature of the increased panoply of services that must be developed to match the requisites of such population in a humane and cost effective manner Such considerations must take into account not only individual and generational differences but the diversity resulting from particular groups and subgroups within the aging population

Aged-care Support in Japan Olivia S. Mitchell, John Piggott, Satoshi Shimizutani, 2004 This study explores economic aspects of the market for long term care LTC with a special focus on Japan First we describe the LTC system in Japan as presently implemented and we highlight some aspects of the program that are novel and potentially of interest to other countries seeking models for long term care provision Next we discuss alternative projections of Japanese LTC utilization and costs Finally since Japan appears likely to experience important shortfalls in LTC in the future we discuss whether such services might be more efficiently organized and financed under alternate forms of provision
