Preventing Famine Policies And Prospects For Africa:

Preventing Famine Donald Curtis, Michael Hubbard, Andrew Shepherd, 2008-03-07 Some urgent new thinking is needed if any lessons are to be learnt from the recent disasters This book brings together the experience of a number of writers who have worked on or studied poverty alleviation programmes in Asia and Africa

Famine in Africa von Braun, Joachim, Teklu, Tesfaye, Webb, Patrick, 1999-01-01 Though famine has affected many parts of the world in the twentieth century the conditions that produce famine extreme poverty armed conflict economic and political turmoil and climate shocks are now most prevalent in Africa Researchers differ on how to address this problem effectively but their arguments are often not informed by empirical analysis from a famine context Broadening current theories and models of development for conquering famine Famine in Africa grounds its findings in long term empirical research especially on the impact of famine on households and markets The authors present the results of field work and other research from numerous parts of Africa with a particular focus on Botswana Ethiopia Niger Rwanda Sudan and Zimbabwe With these data the authors explain the factors that cause famines and assess efforts to mitigate and prevent them Famine in Africa is an important resource for international development specialists students and policymakers

Starvation and India's Democracy Dan Banik, 2007-05-07 Building on Amartya Sen's famous claim that no famine has ever occurred in a democratic country this volume examines the relationship between democracy public action and famine prevention in India

Future Survey Annual 1990 Michael Marien, 1990-01-01

At Risk Piers Blaikie, Terry Cannon, Ian Davis, Ben Wisner, 2014-01-21 The term natural disaster is often used to refer to natural events such as earthquakes hurricanes or floods However the phrase natural disaster suggests an uncritical acceptance of a deeply engrained ideological and cultural myth At Risk questions this myth and argues that extreme natural events are not disasters until a vulnerable group of people is exposed The updated new edition confronts a further ten years of ever more expensive and deadly disasters and discusses disaster not as an aberration but as a signal failure of mainstream development Two analytical models are provided as tools for understanding vulnerability One links remote and distant root causes to unsafe conditions in a progression of vulnerability The other uses the concepts of access and livelihood to understand why some households are more vulnerable than others Examining key natural events and incorporating strategies to create a safer world this revised edition is an important resource for those involved in the fields of environment and development studies

An Economic History of Famine Resilience Jessica Dijkman, Bas van Leeuwen, 2019-09-18 Food crises have always tested societies This volume discusses societal resilience to food crises examining the responses and strategies at the societal level that effectively helped individuals and groups to cope with drops in food supply in various parts of the world over the past two millennia Societal responses can be coordinated by the state the market or civil society Here it is shown that it was often a combined effort but that there were significant variations between regions and periods The long term comparative perspective of the volume brings out these variations explains them and discusses their effects on societal resilience This book will be of interest to advanced students and researchers across economic history institutional economics social history and development studies Climate Change and World Food Security Thomas E. Downing, 2013-06-29 In the last half decade since sustainable development became a serious objective what have we achieved Are livelihoods more secure Are nations wealthier and more resilient Is environmental quality being restored or maintained These are essential questions of development Their answers are many varied between communities and regions even between individuals Two years ago in the aftermath of the Earth Summit and ratification of the Framework Convention on Climate Change but before the first Conference of Parties I participated in a panel at the inaugural Oxford Environment Conference on Climate Change and World Food Security The panel vigorously reviewed issues of resilient development and food security This book is a product of the Oxford Environment Conference It takes the essential questions of sustainability as a starting point to focus on present food security and its future prospects in the face of climate change Why is this book important First I believe our goals to end hunger are under threat We know what to do in many respects but fail to generate the finances and political will to change the structures that thrive on poverty Second I believe concern about the environment has become dangerously separated from the fundamental issues of human deprivation Third I believe climate change is a serious threat and I am dismayed at the way nations dither over how to control greenhouse gas emissions and mechanisms to meet the challenge of adverse climate impacts Famine in Ethiopia Patrick Webb, Joachim Von Braun, Yisehac Yohannes, 1992 Concepts and research approach A record of drought and famine in Ethiopia Household responses to drought and famine Agricultural constraints conflict policy and drought Prices and markets during famine Public intervention during famine Sustainable Rural Development A. Shepherd, 1998-01-19 This book examines the paradigm shift in rural development from an industrial to an holistic approach to technology development from a technocratic to a participatory approach to management and from resource control by big organisations to local resource management It provides a broad ranging assessment of agriculture and local level institutional development and sets out a range of agendas for development practice management and policy into the twenty first century The Migration Experience in Africa Jonathan Baker, Tade Akin Aina, 1995 South Africa by Christian M Rogerson
