Preventing Violence

Claire Renzetti, Diane Follingstad, Ann Coker

Preventing Violence:

Global status report on preventing violence against children 2020, 2020-08-31 Preventing Teen Violence United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Crime and Terrorism, 2011 Preventing and Responding to Violence at Work Kimberly Ann Rogers, Duncan Chappell, 2003 Workplace violence is one of today's most serious occupational hazards. This practical guide offers valuable information on how to systematically design and develop workplace prevention programs and policies. The book approaches the issue from two fronts. First, it demonstrates how workplace violence can be prevented by examining how organizations and groups are handling the problem. It reviews an array of existing guidelines and policies developed by governments, trade unions, special study groups, workplace violence experts, employers, groups, and specific industries and generates a useful survey of best practice strategies. Second, the guide outlines in detail a reliable and effective methodology for developing workplace violence prevention programs, which includes assessing and describing risk, designing, implementing, and monitoring preventive and reactive measures, and reviewing the risk management process. Every worker deserves a safe and secure environment, and violence should not be accepted as part of any job. This book presents concrete guidance for combating violence in the workplace while also providing a wider understanding of the factors and conditions that contribute to it. Preventing Intimate Partner Violence Claire Renzetti, Diane Follingstad, Ann Coker, 2017-07-12 How can we prevent intimate partner violence (IPV)? And how do we define and measure success in preventing it? This book brings together researchers and practitioners from a wide range of fields to examine innovative strategies and programs for preventing IPV. The authors discuss evaluations of current prevention efforts, paying particular attention to underserved groups, including racial and ethnic minorities, immigrants, and refugees. Among the issues addressed are primary prevention programs that target adolescents and young adults; strategies designed to engage men and boys; IPV screening in different settings; the impact of the criminalization of IPV on minority populations; restorative justice programs; interventions for women who use violence; and innovative shelter programming to prevent re-victimization. The volume concludes by identifying the gaps in knowledge about effective prevention and highlighting the most promising future directions for prevention research and strategies. Conflict and Fragility: Preventing and Reducing Armed Violence in Urban Areas Programming Note OECD, 2011-03-30 These three Programming Notes build on the 2009 publication entitled Armed Violence Reduction: Enabling Development and cover urban armed violence, youth, and armed violence and the links between violence reduction and security system reform. Communications and Technology for Violence Prevention National Research Council, Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Forum on Global Violence Prevention, 2012-09-06 In the last 25 years, a major shift has occurred in the field of violence prevention: from the assumption that violence is inevitable to the realization that violence is preventable. As we learn more about what works to reduce violence, the challenge facing those who work in the field is how to use all of this new information to rapidly deploy or enhance new programs At the same time new communications technologies and distribution channels have altered traditional means of communications and have made community based efforts to prevent violence possible by making information readily available How can these new technologies be successfully applied to the field of violence prevention On December 8 9 2011 the IOM s Forum on Global Violence Prevention held a workshop to explore the intersection of violence prevention and information and communications technology The workshop called mPreventViolence provided an opportunity for practitioners to engage in new and innovative thinking concerning these two fields with the goal of bridging gaps in language processes and mechanisms The workshop focused on exploring the potential applications of technology to violence prevention drawing on experience in development health and the social sector as well as from industry and the private sector Communication and Technology for Violence Prevention Workshop Summary is the report that fully explains this workshop
