The scope and depth of the Review may be easily assessed by examination of the Table of Contents The Review was sponsored by the Center for Advanced NDE at the Ames Lab oratory of the U S Dept of Energy in cooperation with the Office of Basic Energy Sciences USDOE the Materials Laboratory at Wright Patterson AFB and the Naval Sea Systems Command Approximately 300 attendees re presenting various government agencies industry and universities parti cipated in the technical presentations poster sessions and discussions This Review possibly the most comprehensive annual symposium in NDE provides a valuable forum for the timely exchange of technical information A few highlights of the Review are summarized in the following paragraphs Review of Progress in Quantitative Nondestructive Evaluation Donald O. Review of Progress in Quantitative Nondestructive Evaluation Donald O. Thompson, Dale E. Chimenti, 2013-08-09 This volume Parts A and B contains edited papers presented at the annual Review of Progress in Quantitative Nondestructive Evaluation held at the Fort Magruder Inn Williamsburg Virginia June 23 28 1985 The Review was organized and sponsored by the Center for NDE at Iowa State University and the Ames Laboratory of the U S Department of Energy in cooperation with the Office of Basic Energy Sciences USDOE and the Materials Laboratory at Wright Patterson Air Force Base In addition the NASA Langley Research Center and the College of William and Mary provided valuable assistance with local arrangements Approximately 340 attendees representing various government agencies industry and universities participated in the technical presentations poster sessions and discussions The interchange of technical information in NDE research and engineering represented by this Review is certainly one of the most comprehensive in the field In order to present the reader with a more useful document we have chosen to organize the symposium papers in these Proceedings by subject rather than by the order of presentation at the Review This arrangement has been realized by selecting topical subject headings many are new or revised for this year under which the large majority of papers would reasonably fall These categories cover a broad spectrum of research in NDE and encompass activities from fundamental work to early engineering applications The following paragraphs capsulize some of the research presented in these Proceedings Review of Progress in Quantitative Nondestructive Evaluation Donald O. Thompson, Dale E. Chimenti, 1988-05 It has been shown both experimentally 2 and theoretically 2 3 that surface skimming SH waves propagating along symmetry axes of the texture have velocities that differ in proportion to the magnitude of any stress that lies along one of the symmetry axes Specifically the stress is directly proportional to the relative velocity difference through the equation V ik V ki I cr 2G V ik where cr is the stress in the direction i G is the shear modulus and Vik is the elocity of an SH wave propagating in the i direction and polarized in the k direction This rather simple relationship is particularly useful because the constant of proportionality involves only the well known shear modulus and the velocity term can be measured directly by observing the transit time shift when a transmitter receiver pair of SH wave transducers are rotated through 90 degrees on the surface of the part Experimentally Equation I was tested on the web of railroad rails which had been loaded by a 200 000 pound mechanical testing machine I The method of exciting and detecting the necessary surface skimming SH waves used electromagnetic acoustic transducers EMATs that operated through a magnetostrictive mechanism at high magnetic fields 4 Wave velocities parallel and perpendicular to the axis of the rail on the web differed by the amount predicted by Equation I to an absolute accuracy of 30 percent in the worst case
