The Class Sonia Livingstone, Julian Sefton-Green, 2016-05-03. An intimate look at how children network, identify, learn and grow in a connected world. Read Online at connectedyouth.nyupress.org. Do today's youth have more opportunities than their parents? As they build their own social and digital networks, does that offer new routes to learning and friendship? How do they navigate the meaning of education in a digitally connected but fiercely competitive, highly individualized world? Based upon fieldwork at an ordinary London school, The Class examines young people's experiences of growing up and learning in a digital world. In this original and engaging study, Livingstone and Sefton-Green explore youth values, teenagers' perspectives on their futures and their tactics for facing the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead. The authors follow the students as they move across their different social worlds in school, at home and with their friends, engaging in a range of activities from video games to drama clubs and music lessons. By portraying the texture of the students' everyday lives, The Class seeks to understand how the structures of social class and cultural capital shape the development of personal interests, relationships and autonomy. Providing insights into how young people's social, digital and learning networks enable or disempower them, Livingstone and Sefton-Green reveal that the experience of disconnections and blocked pathways is often more common than that of connections and new opportunities.

"You're Not My Real Dad!"
Rich Reeder, 2019-10-17. After years and years of fighting, arguing, drug overdoses and suicide threats, we had no idea of how we could make it through the next day. We were being held hostage by my 19-year-old step-daughter who would threaten to kill herself if she didn't get what she wanted. We couldn't just give in to her, nor could we not take her threats seriously. In the midst of yet another argument, she played the 'I'll kill myself' card again. Being beyond the point of extreme frustration and hopelessness, I got up and walked calmly to our closet, returning with my gun. I placed the gun in her lap, looked into her eyes and said, 'Go ahead, just do it. I promised her we would give her a nice funeral and take good care of her remains.' I then said, 'Just do it or shut up about it.' She paused for a few moments and looked at the gun. We were a normal middle-class family living in the suburbs, trying to have a regular life like anyone else. With years and years of fighting and battling, a normal life is one we didn't know would ever be possible. I was first a married guy without kids, then a step-dad and eventually a father. I have seen the effects of divorce from many angles and the toll it takes on entire families and the kids. I saw it in my own home in ways I would never have believed. Mix in some mental issues and it was a raging battle. Having experienced all that, I want to encourage families to think hard about what a family breakup can do to the family at large. My hope is that sharing my experiences might help families stick it out and reap the blessing of not having given up.
