published since the first edition appeared in March 2012 and to reflect new trends in technology that influences how adolescents are reading and responding to literature

Inscrutable Belongings Stephen Hong Sohn, 2018-07-17

Inscrutable Belongings brings together formalist and contextual modes of critique to consider narrative strategies that emerge in queer Asian North American literature. Stephen Hong Sohn provides extended readings of fictions involving queer Asian North American storytellers looking to texts including Russell Leong's Camouflage, Lydia Kwa's Pulse, Alexander Chee's Edinburgh, Nina Revoyr's Wingshooters, and Noelle Alumit's Letters to Montgomery Clift. Despite many antagonistic forces, these works' protagonists achieve a revolutionary form of narrative centrality through the defiant act of speaking out, recounting their survival plots and enduring to the very last page. These feats are made possible through their construction of alternative social structures. Sohn calls Inscrutable Belongings "Collectively the texts that Sohn examines bring to mind foundational struggles for queer Asian North Americans and other socially marginalized groups and confront a broad range of issues including interracial desire, the AIDS/HIV epidemic, transnational mobility, and postcolonial trauma. In these texts, Asian North American queer people are often excluded from normative family structures and must contend with multiple histories of oppression, erasure, and physical violence involving homophobia, racism, and social death. Sohn's work makes clear that for such writers and their imagined communities, questions of survival, kinship, and narrative development are more than representational; they are directly tied to lived experience."

The Food Plot in the Nineteenth-Century

British Novel Michael Parrish Lee, 2016-12-21. This book is about food, eating, and appetite in the nineteenth-century British novel. While much novel criticism has focused on the marriage plot, this book revises the history and theory of the novel, uncovering the food plot against which the marriage plot and modern subjectivity take shape. With the emergence of Malthusian population theory and its unsettling links between sexuality and the food supply, the British novel became animated by the tension between the marriage plot and the food plot. Charting the shifting relationship between these plots from Jane Austen's polite meals to Bram Stoker's bloodthirsty vampires, this book sheds new light on some of the best-known works of nineteenth-century literature and pushes forward understandings of narrative, literary character, biopolitics, and the novel as a form. From Austen to Zombies, Michael Parrish Lee explores how the food plot conflicts with the marriage plot in nineteenth-century literature and beyond, and how appetite keeps rising up against taste and intellect. Lee's book will be of interest to Victorianists, genre theorists, Food Studies, and theorists of bare life and biopolitics. Regenia Gagnier, Professor of English University of Exeter In The Food Plot Michael Lee engages recent and classic scholarship and brings fresh and provocative readings to well worked literary critical ground Drawing upon narrative theory character study theories of sexuality and political economy Professor Lee develops a refreshing and satisfyingly deep new reading of canonical novels as he develops the concept of the food plot The Food Plot should be of interest to specialists in the novel and food studies as well as students and general readers Professor April Bullock California State University Fullerton USA Bold Words

A Necessary Luxury Julie E. Fromer,2008-11-15 Tea drinking in Victorian England was a pervasive activity that when seen through the lens of a century s perspective presents a unique overview of Victorian culture Tea was a necessity and a luxury it was seen as masculine as well as feminine it symbolized the exotic and the domestic and it represented both moderation and excess Tea was flexible enough to accommodate and to mark subtle differences in social status to mediate these differences between individuals and to serve as a shared cultural symbol within England In A Necessary Luxury Tea in Victorian England Julie E Fromer analyzes tea histories advertisements and nine Victorian novels including Alice s Adventures in Wonderland Wuthering Heights and Portrait of a Lady Fromer demonstrates how tea functions within the literature as an arbiter of taste and middle class respectability aiding in the determination of class status and moral position She reveals the way in which social identity and character are inextricably connected in Victorian ideology as seen through the ritual of tea Drawing from the fields of literary studies cultural studies history and anthropology A Necessary Luxury offers in depth analysis of both visual and textual representations of the commodity and the ritual that was tea in nineteenth century England The Age of Dreaming Nina Revoyr, 2021-05-26 In 1960s L A a Japanese American former silent film star investigates a mystery from his dark past in this novel by the author of Southland Jun Nakayama was a silent film star in the early days of Hollywood By 1964 he is living in complete obscurity until a young writer Nick Bellinger tracks him down for an interview When Bellinger reveals that he has written a screenplay with Nakayama in mind Jun is intrigued by the possibility of returning to movies But he begins to worry that someone might delve too deeply into the past and uncover the events that abruptly ended his career in 1922 Like the changing social and racial tides in California and the unsolved murder of his favorite director Spurred on by his fear of a potential misunderstanding Jun begins to track down his surviving acquaintances from his years as Perennial Pictures greatest star In the process he recounts the lives of several other figures from the silent film era Elizabeth Banks the working class girl from St Louis who becomes a major Hollywood diva Nora Minton Niles the dreamy childlike teenage star controlled by her ambitious mother Hanako Minatoya the elegant actress and playwright who serves as Jun s inspiration and foil And Ashley Bennett Tyler the British director whose guiding hand turns Jun into a star But what Jun ultimately discovers is far more complex and personal than even he could have imagined The Age of Dreaming alternates between the 1960s and the height of the silent film era telling the story of a man caught between worlds Jun must try to please both his Japanese and American fans and while he is adored by moviegoers especially women he s despised by public officials who see him as a threat to American power and racial purity Praise for The Age of Dreaming With Nabokov worthy sentences characters so real our hearts begin to beat with theirs and a story as deeply mysterious and riveting as any the Hollywood it conjures up could have created The Age of Dreaming is a masterpiece of the sort that doesn t just seduce the reader it leaves you transformed Revoyr deserves to be counted among the top ranks of novelists at work today Jerry Stahl author of I Fatty Brilliant and original The carefully restrained voice of its narrator recalls Ishiguro s The Remains of the Day Alison Lurie Pulitzer Prize winner Cunningham Revoyr beautifully invokes Jun s self deceptions and his growing self awareness It s an enormously satisfying novel Publishers Weekly Teenage Time Pamela Thurschwell, 2025-07-24 Adolescence has been codified as an unpredictable experimental and liminal time Teenage Time reads this phase as queer in its framing and disruption of developmental narratives of modernity showing that the identity of the teenager as it has been culturally perceived in different epochs developing since the 1940s has shaped the temporal imaginary of the 20th and 21st century From the conception of the teenager after the Second World War through notions of rebellion and consumption peaking in the 1980s and 1990s to representations of their precarious futures amidst the political social economic and environmental uncertainties of today Pamela Thurschwell exposes British and American representations of the adolescent as both destructive and recursive in their disturbance of narrative and teleology in literature film and sub cultural history Calling on theories of queer temporality time studies psychoanalysis and Marxist accounts of modernity this book traces how the teenager is out of time and time travelling commodified anarchic futureless precarious with an uneven distribution of time in relation to race and how they confront dystopias in Young Adult catastrophe literature Covering a wide range of works this book features contemporary and YA fiction such as The Member of the Wedding American Pastoral Sula The Hate U Give The Fault in Our Stars How I Live Now Never Let Me Go The Hunger Games and They Both Die at the End and films including Donnie Darko The Breakfast Club Back to the Future Say Anything and Ghost World Original and conceptually sophisticated Thurschwell demonstrates how adolescence is formed in dialogue with a crisis in and of historical time revealing the promise and destruction of the modern teenager
