Raising Black Children Questions And Answers For Parents And Teachers:

Raising Black Children James P. Comer, 1975      Raising Black Children James P. Comer, Alvin F. Poussaint, 1992-11-01

Two of America's most trusted and respected authorities on child care provide answers to nearly 1000 questions on the problem of raising African American children. Along with the traditional demands of parenthood, today's parents must grapple with such daunting issues as drugs, AIDS, violence, and educational pressures. But black parents face an even more challenging task: they must actively combat negative messages of racism while teaching their children to succeed in a white-dominated culture. In this thorough guide to parenting, two noted child psychiatrists, both African American, focus on the special concerns of black parents. They offer comprehensive advice on nearly 1,000 common childrearing questions, paying particular attention to such problems as building self-esteem and helping black children cope with the often unconscious racism and microaggressions of white society. Authoritative and comprehensive, Raising Black Children is an indispensable resource for every African American family and for teachers of all races who seek to gain sensitivity to the needs of their black pupils. A necessary addition to all parenting and parent-teacher collections. Linda Cullum, Library Journal

Understanding Diverse Families Barbara F. Okun, 1998-07-17 Today's mental health practitioners face a rapidly changing clientele. Divorce, remarriage, multiracial marriages, different types of adoption, openly gay and lesbian relationships—all have significantly altered the nature and composition of families. An indispensable classroom text and an important resource for clinicians working in private practice, managed care, and other settings, this book insightfully examines a range of healthy families with creative family structures.

Parents' Cultural Belief Systems Sara Harkness, Charles M. Super, 1996-01-01 This illuminating new volume offers a multifaceted view of parenting: cultural belief systems, their origins in culturally constructed parental experience, their expressions in parental practices, and their consequences for children's well-being and growth. Discussing issues with implications beyond the study of parenthood, the book shows how the analysis of child outcomes, which relate to parents' cultural belief systems or parental ethnotheories, can provide valuable insights into the nature and meaning of family and self in society and, in some cases, a basis for culturally sensitive therapeutic interventions. Illuminating the powerful influence of parents' cultural belief systems on the health and development of children, this volume will be welcomed by a broad audience. Anthropologists and psychologists interested in cultural theory and the interface of self and society will find a rich source of ideas and information. Parent educators, family therapists, pediatricians, and others who deal with ethnically diverse populations will discover invaluable information on what makes parents think and act the way they do. The book can be used as a primary text for courses in cognitive anthropology and cultural psychology and as an auxiliary text for culturally oriented courses in lifespan development, education, health, and human services.
