Buddhism while also exploring the social cultural and religious fabrics that underlie the spatial configurations of globalization

Black Directors in Hollywood Melvin Donalson, 2003-12-01 Hollywood film directors are some of the world's most powerful storytellers shaping the fantasies and aspirations of people around the globe. Since the 1960s African Americans have increasingly joined their ranks bringing fresh insights to movie characterizations, plots, and themes and depicting areas of African American culture that were previously absent from mainstream films. Today black directors are making films in all popular genres while inventing new ones to speak directly from and to the black experience. This book offers a first comprehensive look at the work of black directors in Hollywood from pioneers such as Gordon Parks, Melvin Van Peebles, and Ossie Davis to current talents including Spike Lee, John Singleton, Kasi Lemmons, and Carl Franklin. Discussing 67 individuals and over 135 films, Melvin Donalson thoroughly explores how black directors' storytelling skills and film techniques have widened both the thematic focus and visual style of American cinema. Assessing the meanings and messages in their films, he convincingly demonstrates that black directors are balancing Hollywood's demand for box office success with artistic achievement and responsibility to ethnic, cultural, and gender issues.

The English Catalogue of Books Published from January, 1835, to January, 1863, 1864 Annual Catalogue Missouri: Montana State University, State University of Montana (Missoula, Mont.), 1916 Undergraduate Catalog of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst Massachusetts Agricultural College, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, 1914 Tough Girls Sherrie A. Inness, 2018-01-09 Tough girls are everywhere these days. Whether it is Ripley battling a swarm of monsters in the Aliens trilogy or Captain Janeway piloting the starship Voyager through space in the continuing Star Trek saga, women strong in both body and mind have become increasingly popular in the films, television series, advertisements, and comic books of recent decades. In Tough Girls, Sherrie A. Inness explores the changing representations of women in all forms of popular media and what those representations suggest about shifting social mores. She begins her examination of tough women in American popular culture with three popular television shows of the 1960s and 70s: The Avengers, Charlie's Angels, and The Bionic Woman, and continues through such contemporary pieces as a recent ad for Calvin Klein jeans and current television series such as The X-Files and Xena: Warrior Princess. Although all these portrayals show women who can take care of themselves in ways that have historically been seen as uniquely male, they also variously undercut women's toughness. She argues that even some of the strongest depictions of women have perpetuated women's subordinate status using toughness in complicated ways to break or bend gender stereotypes while simultaneously affirming them. Also of interest: Madcaps, Screwballs, and Con Women. The Female Trickster in American Culture Lori Landay
