Rockwood, 2009-01-01 DVD Bulletin, 1903 The Bark Canoes and Skin Boats of North America Edwin Tappan

Adney, Howard I. Chappelle, 2015-10-27 The bark canoes of the North American Indians particularly those of birchbark were among the most highly developed manually propelled primitive watercraft They could be used to carry heavy loads in shallow streams but were light enough to be hauled long distances over land Built with Stone Age tools from available materials their design size and appearance were varied to suit the many requirements of their users Upon arrival in North America European settlers began using the native made craft for traveling through the wilderness Even today canoes are based on these ancient designs This fascinating guide combines historical background with instructions for constructing one Author Edwin Tappan Adney born in 1868 devoted his life to studying canoes and was practically the sole scholar in his field His papers and research have been assembled by a curator at the Smithsonian Institution and illustrated with black and white line drawings diagrams and photos Included here are measurements detailed drawings construction methods and models The book covers canoes from Newfoundland to the Pacific Ocean as well as umiaks and kayaks from the Arctic The
