The Writer's Quotebook Jim Fisher, 2006 If you have ever stared a page that remains stubbornly blank if you have ever wondered why writers write or whether good writers are born or made if you are a novelist playwright poet or journalist or simply delight in the written word The Writer's Quotebook is for you Whether you keep it in your office on your coffee table next to your keyboard or your bed this rich compendium of over one thousand quotations will inspire invigorate and illuminate the often challenging sometimes humorous but always fascinating task of those who bring words to life From William Faulkner and Ernest Hemingway to Doris Lessing and Joyce Carol Oates more than five hundred published writers put pen to paper on what the literary life is all about Selections come from seasoned professionals as well as those just establishing their voice and they represent a variety of nationalities and genres The book is divided into three sections The first part is devoted to the creative process including thoughts on where writers get their ideas the role of inspiration what kind of people write and where talent comes from In part two the subject shifts to writing as a craft Here authors ponder the creation of protagonists and points of view the writing of dialogue setting and description creating plots and the anatomy of style The final third of the book deals with the challenges and rewards that come with the writing life Subjects in this section include the economic realities of writing classes conferences and workshops dealing with rejection and bad reviews writing habits and rituals despair alcohol suicide and fame Articulated with elegant metaphor in straightforward prose or with wry wit the carefully selected and thoughtfully organized quotations come together to form a narrative that entertains informs and in the case of aspiring writers shows the way to better writing Runway Ready Sheryl Berk, Carrie Berk, 2016-01-05 Project Runway meets Fame in a trendy new series from the authors of The Cupcake Club Balloons Spaghetti Rainbows If you were to ask Mickey Williams these would not be her top points of inspiration for designing a party dress But in fashion the client is always right and Mickey's client happens to be fashion legend Victoria Vanderweil's five year old granddaughter Even though it's the toughest assignment Mickey's gotten during her time at the Fashion Academy of Brooklyn she can't pass up the opportunity to impress a top designer like Victoria But when Cordy turns out to be a tiny terror with non stop demands the assignment goes from hard to impossible Not only that but Victoria wants Mickey to babysit Cordy during NYC Fashion Week Can Mickey pull off her project and pass or will it fall apart at the seams See how it all began in The Fashion Academy The Public Work of Rhetoric John M. Ackerman, David J. Coogan, 2013-03-15 The Public Work of Rhetoric presents the art of rhetorical techn as a contemporary praxis for civic engagement and social change which is necessarily inclusive of people inside and outside the academy In this provocative call to action editors John M Ackerman and David J Coogan along with seventeen other accomplished contributors offer case studies and criticism on the rhetorical practices of citizen scholars pursuing democratic ideals in diverse civic communities with partnerships across a range of media institutions exigencies and discourses Challenging conventional research methodologies and the traditional insularity of higher education these essays argue that civic engagement as a rhetorical act requires critical attention to our notoriously veiled identity in public life to our uneasy affiliation with democracy as a public virtue and to the transcendent powers of discourse and ideology This can be accomplished the contributors argue by building on the compatible traditions of materialist rhetoric and community literacy two vestiges of rhetoric s dual citizenship in the fields of communication and English This approach expresses a collective desire in rhetoric for more politically responsive scholarship more visible impact in public life and more access to the critical spaces between universities and their communities The compelling case studies in The Public Work of Rhetoric are located in inner urban and postindustrial communities where poverty is the overriding concern in afterschool and extracurricular alternatives that offer new routes to literate achievement in new media and digital representations of ethnic cultures designed to promote chosen identities in neighborhoods and scientific laboratories where race is the dominant value and in the policy borderlands between universities and the communities they serve Through these studies and accounts the contributors champion the notion that the public work of rhetoric is the tough labor of gaining access and trust learning the codes and histories of communities locating the situations in which rhetorical expertise is most effective and in many cases jointly defining the terms for gauging social change

No Straight Path Elizabeth Jacoway,2019-09-04 No Straight Path tells the stories of ten successful female historians who came of age in an era when it was unusual for women to pursue careers in academia especially in the field of history These first person accounts illuminate the experiences women of the post World War II generation encountered when they chose to enter this male dominated professional world None of the contributors took a straight path into the profession most first opted instead for the more conventional pursuits of college public school teaching marriage and motherhood Despite these commonalities their stories are individually unique one rose from poverty in Arkansas to attend graduate school at Rutgers before earning the chairmanship of the history department at the University of Memphis another pursued an archaeology degree studied social work and served as a college administrator before becoming a history professor at Tulane University a third was a lobbyist who attended seminary then taught high school entered the history graduate program at Indiana

University and helped develop two honors colleges before entering academia and yet another grew up in segregated Memphis and then worked in public schools in New Jersey before earning a graduate degree in history at the University of Memphis where she now teaches The experiences of the other historians featured in this collection are equally varied and distinctive Several themes emerge in their collective stories Most assumed they would become teachers nurses secretaries or society ladies the only respectable choices available to women at the time The obligations of marriage and family they believed would far outweigh their careers outside the home Upon making the unusual decision at the time to move beyond high school teaching and attend graduate school few grasped the extent to which men dominated the field of history or that they would be perceived by many as little more than objects of sexual desire The work home balance proved problematic for them throughout their careers as they struggled to combine the needs and demands of their families with the expectations of the profession These women had no road maps to follow The giants who preceded them Gerda Lerner Anne Firor Scott Linda K Kerber Joan Wallach Scott A Elizabeth Taylor and others had breached the gates but only with great drive and determination Few of the contributors to No Straight Path expected to undertake such heroics or to rise to that level of accomplishment They may have had modest expectations when entering the field but with the help of female scholars past and present they kept climbing and reached a level of success within the profession that holds great promise for the women who follow
