Raincoast Chronicles 23 Peter A. Robson, 2015-04-25 When the first edition of Raincoast Chronicles was produced by a couple of novice publishers in the unlikely location of Pender Harbour in 1972 it boldly announced that it was going to put BC character on the record Printed in sepia ink and decorated with the rococo flourishes characteristic of that extravagant era the unclassifiable journal cum serial book about life on the BC coast struck a nerve and in time became something very close to what it set out to be a touchstone of British Columbia identity Soon the term Raincoast which had been coined by the editors was appearing on boats puppet theatres interior decorating firms and at least one other publishing enterprise Raincoast Chronicles also created another publishing enterprise Harbour Publishing Many of the stories that started out as articles in the Chronicles grew into books and so the White family was more or less forced to get into book publishing to deal with them That undertaking went on to publish some six hundred books and counting about every possible aspect of BC and in 2014 celebrated its fortieth anniversary in the biz To honour that occasion this special double issue of Raincoast Chronicles takes a tour down memory lane selecting a trove of the most outstanding stories in all those Harbour books and republishing them in one volume Here are some of Canada's most exciting and iconic writers Al Purdy Anne Cameron Edith Iglauer Patrick Lane and Grant Lawrence to start a long list Here also are stories of disasters at sea scarcely believable bush plane feats eerie events at coastal ghost towns and a First Nations elder who has seen so many sasquatches he finds them sort of boring Full of great drawings and photos this jumbo anniversary edition of Raincoast Chronicles is a feast of great Pacific Northwest storytelling

Off the Map Stephen Hume, 2001 In his third collection of essays veteran journalist Stephen Hume demonstrates yet again that his understanding of British Columbia and beyond runs as deep as Hecate Strait and as far reaching as the Rocky Mountains In Off the Map Hume takes his readers on a wondrous journey through western Canada stopping at little known places along the way to take a good look around talk to the people who live there and absorb the local history and culture It is a testament to Hume's skills as a storyteller that he can write a lengthy and brilliant encomium to the Fraser River praising its many incarnations from headwater to mouth that is as personal and rivetting as his descriptions of the intriguing characters he has met while journeying into the remote nooks and crannies of BC In the Headless Valley of the Nahanni on the Northwest Territories border we meet Albert Faille a trapper and adventurer who lost his head there not to a marauding sasquatch but to the valley's savage beauty and irresistible mystique Turn a few more pages and you're on the west coast where he elegizes the languages that have disappeared from here like drawings in the sand

Here Be Dragons Stefan Ekman, Stefan Ekman, 2013-02-19 First in depth study of the use of landscape in fantasy literature Winner of the Mythopoeic Scholarship Award for Myth and Fantasy Studies 2016 Fantasy worlds are never mere backdrops They are an integral part of the work and refuse to remain separate from other elements These worlds combine landscape with narrative logic by incorporating alternative rules about cause and effect or physical transformation They become actors in the drama interacting with the characters offering assistance or hindrance and making ethical demands In Here Be Dragons Stefan Ekman provides a wide ranging survey of the ubiquitous fantasy map as the point of departure for an in depth discussion of what such maps can tell us about what is important in the fictional worlds and the stories that take place there With particular focus on J R R Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings Ekman shows how fantasy settings deserve serious attention from both readers and critics Includes insightful readings of works by Steven Brust Garth Nix Robert Holdstock Terry Pratchett Charles de Lint China Mi ville Patricia McKillip Tim Powers Lisa Goldstein Steven R Donaldson Robert Jordan and Neil Gaiman and Charles Vess Utah BLM Statewide Wilderness Environmental Impact Statement : Draft: pts.
