Rushes John Rechy, 2018-11-20 A tour de force novel from the groundbreaking author of City of Night and one of the premier chroniclers of gay life in America Los Angeles Times John Rechy takes us inside a leather and Western bar located near the deserted waterfront of a large American city This is a sexual battlefield a world of trucks piers and warehouses depicted in Rechy's eloquent convincing basically unsparing prose Herbert Gold The bar regulars are on a ceaseless search for compatible love The occasional customer hopes for a quick sexual fix Female and transvestite hookers work the dark streets outside A couple seeks a voyeuristic experience And one young man ventures out for the first time During the course of a single evening we get to know them all and watch as the night descends into the depths of a sexual underworld where danger and play transform into quasi religious rites that end in ritual sacrifice

Out of the Depths Barry Ivker, 2014-03 The Holocaust has presented us with innumerable questions that we wrestle with today How could such systematic evil be perpetuated in a country renowned for its sophistication in all areas of the sciences and the arts How could the world turn a blind eye to what was happening and close its doors to potential victims How could ordinary people participate in this horror How could others act to save Jews at the risk of their own lives and the lives of their families How could those facing imminent destruction continue to study agricultural techniques useful to the future state of Israel or teach their children how to paint It is my hope that these plays will serve to focus on some of these questions even as we witness new genocidal wars around the world There is an imperative here as old as the Biblical account of Genesis It is for us to affirm the goodness of the world as it is the potential goodness of human nature and the need to create and procreate even in the force of destruction and death
