Multicultural Australia David Goodman, D. J. O'Hearn, Chris Wallace-Crabbe, 1991 Essays drawn from the conference Cultural Diversity in Australian Society held at the University of Melbourne in August 1989 includes A Koorie view by Eve Fesl pp 56-60 arguing that Australia has always been a multicultural and multilingual society The Public Life of Australian Multiculturalism Anthony Moran, 2016-11-26 This book argues that in a globalising world in which nation states have to manage population flows and intensifying cultural diversity within their borders multicultural policy and approaches have never been more important The author takes an extended case study approach examining Australia's experiments with pragmatic forms of multiculturalism and multicultural policy since the early 1970s up to the present The Public Life of Australian Multiculturalism challenges some larger assumptions about multiculturalism either that it undermines national identity or that it is and should strive to be a post national approach to identity issues Instead it argues that framing multiculturalism by inclusive national identity has been the key to multiculturalism's continuity and general success in Australia The book also directly challenges the claim that we have entered a post multicultural world making a case instead for the continuing relevance of pragmatic approaches to multiculturalism Students and scholars researching in sociology politics migration multiculturalism ethnic and racial studies nationalism and identity studies will find this study of interest define their own values and ways in which they could contribute to a better world The aim of this volume is to provide a forum for discussion of how multiple social perspectives and personal values can be brought together on common grounds around matters related to democracy Contributions from research and scholarly theoretical work as well as presentation of existing creative models of democracy education will be included Authors from the major democracies will comment on the models and practice of multicultural education in their respective countries to facilitate discussion and learning from each others experiences

In the Face of Diversity Nathan D. Gardner Molina, 2025-05-01 The unity or uniformity of the Chinese Australian community has been frequently referenced in many recent political popular and even academic discussions The oneness of the community is often described as latent and inevitable if not already a fact Yet many Chinese Australians have also aspirationally used collective terms to refer to themselves there have been perennial calls to unite and advance the community or have it speak with one voice But has a united or unitary Chinese Australian community ever actually existed If so would a united community be a means to an end or an end in itself And where would this community sit in contemporary multicultural Australia I Am You Are We Are attempts to answer to these questions it is a history of more than a dozen

Chinese Australian community organisations from across the country over five decades that draws on the English and Chinese language materials these organisations have produced over the years as well as interviews with ten past and present leaders Instead of a single community the evidence demonstrates the existence of many diverse Chinese Australian communities Consequently the book advances two ideas Chinese Australian unity presents itself as a chimera that inhabits the social space shared by Chinese Australians and has only ever been momentarily or partially grasped by community organisations Imagining the Chinese Australian community has nonetheless produced real world outcomes the most prominent being a highly participatory style of Australian multiculturalism These two ideas are woven through six moments in recent history that have been highly decisive for Chinese Australian communities I Am You Are We Are conveys Chinese Australian history in clear and evocative prose while remaining academically authoritative and socially conscious The result is a work that dismantles the prevailing myth of a single Chinese bloc to rebuild an appreciation of multiculturalism in Australia along with specific contributions made by Chinese Australian communities
