Multilateral Negotiations Lessons From Arms Control Trade And The Environment:

Multilateral Negotiations Fen Osler Hampson, Michael Hart, 1999-04-05 Political scientist Fen Osler Hampson with the assistance of trade specialist Michael Hart studies the component parts of the multilateral negotiation process to identify those factors making for success or failure The authors argue that multilateral negotiation is in essence a coalition building enterprise involving states nonstate actors and international organizations Among the questions they raise are How do issues get to the table in multilateral negotiations Who sits at the table and who composes the tiers of relevant stakeholders What are the procedures for managing complexity What are the obstacles strategic and psychological to reaching agreement Ranging from the 1963 Test Ban Treaty to the Climate Change Convention 1992 and the completion of the Uruguay Round of GATT 1993 individual case studies include discussions on security environmental and economic issues Of particular interest is the attention given to nongovernmental actors such as scientists and environmental groups like Greenpeace International in prenegotiation and negotiation phases

Multilateral Negotiations Natalie Züfle, 2011-10-11 Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject Politics Topic Peace and Conflict Security grade 1 2 Free University of Berlin Center for Global Politics course International Negotiation language English abstract The four illustrated aspects i e number of actors and issues communication process as well as the building of coalitions exemplary show that certain specifics are only inherent in multilateral negotiations making them much more complex and with it last but not least fundamentally different from bilateral bargaining

Improving Global Environmental Governance Norichika Kanie, Steinar Andresen, Peter M. Haas, 2013-10-30 The experience of environmental governance is approached in Improving Global Environmental Governance from the unique perspective of actor configuration and embedded networks of actors which are areas of emerging importance The chapters look at existing Multilateral Environmental Agreements MEAs and the broader constellation of partially networked institutions to better understand the involvement of individual actors and how to deepen the networks that include them to generate more effective governance The book covers a wide range of issues pertaining to environmental governance including trans boundary air pollution marine pollution biodiversity and ozone depletion It also examines partnerships as a hybrid case of emerging modes of environmental governance These partnerships are a recent form of actor configuration that warrant attention for dealing with global environmental threats in order to better understand the full potential of actor configurations in the absence of state involvement In order to test applicability to on going but stalled processes the book applies the approach to one of the most difficult issues we face climate change By addressing key questions in this important area the book provides new perspectives in the nexus between agency and architecture in environmental governance in the twenty first century

Governing the Climate Change Regime Tim Cadman, Rowena Maguire, Charles Sampford, 2016-12-01 This volume the second in a series of three examines the institutional architecture underpinning the global climate integrity system This system comprises an inter related set of institutions governance arrangements regulations norms and practices that aim to implement the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change UNFCCC Arguing that governance is a neutral term to describe the structures and processes that coordinate climate action the book presents a continuum of governance values from thick to thin to determine the regime s legitimacy and integrity The collection contains four parts with part one exploring the links between governance and integrity part two containing chapters which evaluate climate governance arrangements part three exploring avenues for improving climate governance and part four reflecting on the road to the UNFCCC s Paris Agreement The book provides new insights into understanding how systemic institutional and governance failures have occurred how they could occur again in the same or different form and how these failures impact on the integrity of the UNFCCC This work extends contemporary governance scholarship to explore the extent to which selected institutional case studies thematic areas and policy approaches contribute to the overall integrity of the regime

The Organization of Global Negotiations Joanna Depledge, 2013 The basic assumption of this book is that the organization of a negotiation process matters The global negotiations on climate change involve over 180 countries and innumerable observers and other participants addressing enormously complex and economically vital issues with conflicting agendas For the UN to create an effective and well supported international regime has required enormous and very skilful organization factors such as the role of the Chair the choice of negotiating arenas the rules for the conduct of business and the approach of negotiating texts are usually taken for granted and rarely attract attention until something goes wrong This book explores how the negotiations were organized to produce the Kyoto Protocol to the Climate Change Convention and the subsequent Bonn Agreements and Marrakesh Accords The author draws out the lessons and implications for other intricate and far reaching negotiations not all of which have succeeded so far such as the WTO trade negotiations at Seattle and Cancun This is essential reading for all participants in and organizers of international negotiations and for researchers and students of international relations climate change and environmental studies

Encyclopedia of International Relations and Global Politics Martin Griffiths, 2013-11-26 The study of international relations has changed rapidly in recent years Firstly as a consequence of major political and economic change the end of the cold war and the fall of communism the resurgence of nationalism terrorism and forms of fundamentalism globalization and secondly linked with these developments because of the vitality of the discipline with ongoing debates on the fundamental paradigms for the understanding of international relations and the emergence of the perspectives of feminism postmodernism constructivism and critical theory The Routledge Encyclopedia of International Relations and Global Politics provides a unique reference source for students and academics covering all aspects of global international relations and the contemporary discipline across IR's major subject divisions of diplomacy military affairs international political economy and theory Written by a distinguished group of international scholars the Encyclopedia is largely comprised of substantial entries of more than 1 000 words with fifty major entries of 5 000 words on core contemporary topics Each entry is fully cross referenced and followed by a listing of complementary entries and a short bibliography for further reading The whole is comprehensively indexed There is no other resource of its kind and the Encyclopedia of International Relations and Global Politics will be an extremely valuable addition to all libraries supporting teaching and research in the social sciences conflict management and negotiation International Negotiation and Political Narratives Fen Osler Hampson, Amrita Narlikar, 2022-02-14

This book shows that political narratives can promote or thwart the prospects for international cooperation and are major factors in international negotiation processes in the 21st century In a world that is experiencing waves of right wing and left wing populism international cooperation has become increasingly difficult This volume focuses on how the intersubjective identities of political parties and narratives shape their respective values interests and negotiating behaviors and strategies Through a series of comparative case studies the book explains how and why narratives contribute to negotiation failure or deadlock in some circumstances and why in others they do not because a new narrative that garners public and political support has emerged through the process of negotiation The book also examines how narratives interact with negotiation principles and alter the bargaining range of a negotiation including the ability to make concessions This book will be of much interest to students of international negotiation economics security studies and international relations
