Biess, Daniel M. Gross, 2014-05-22 Through the first half of the twentieth century emotions were a legitimate object of scientific study across a variety of disciplines After 1945 however in the wake of Nazi irrationalism emotions became increasingly marginalized and postwar rationalism took central stage Emotion remained on the scene of scientific and popular study but largely at the fringes as a behavioral reflex or as a concern of the private sphere So why by the 1960s had the study of emotions returned to the forefront of academic investigation In Science and Emotions after 1945 Frank Biess and Daniel M Gross chronicle the curious resurgence of emotion studies and show that it was fueled by two very different sources social movements of the 1960s and brain science A central claim of the book is that the relatively recent neuroscientific study of emotion did not initiate but instead consolidated the emotional turn by clearing the ground for multidisciplinary work on the emotions Science and Emotions after 1945 tells the story of this shift by looking closely at scientific disciplines in which the study of emotions has featured prominently including medicine psychiatry neuroscience and the social sciences viewed in each case from a humanities perspective Rethinking Peacekeeping, Gender

R.

Duncan-Andrade,2022-08-11 Equality or Equity sets forth a compelling argument urging us to shift our understanding of the role of our education system from providing equal opportunity to building an equitable society A leading scholar practitioner and ardent proponent of culturally responsive forms of education Jeffrey M R Duncan Andrade aims to settle the debates over whether we should work toward a public education system built on the goal of equality in which identical resources are provided for all students or equity in which different resources are offered in response to differences in student interests and needs Duncan Andrade centers his argument on the importance of creating meaningful education experiences for all students particularly for low income students of color and immigrant students who have gained relatively fewer benefits from decades of equality focused education reform Drawing on research from across a range of disciplines including neuroscience social epidemiology public health and social work Duncan Andrade introduces three essential domains of a pedagogy that are both culturally and community responsive relationships relevance and responsibility He enlists the voices of practitioners to provide grounded examples of what community responsive pedagogy looks like in each of these domains These examples demonstrate how equitable classroom practices can enrich student engagement enhance trauma responsiveness and improve educational outcomes Equality or Equity makes an urgent appeal for designing and implementing a truly equitable school system and shows us how we can begin to accomplish that goal

This book discusses inner peace from an Islamic theological and spiritual perspective, the writings of Said Nursi, a twentieth-century Muslim scholar. Inner peace is a topic of great interest in the world at present. While happiness and mental health have been extensively discussed from a psychological and sociological perspective, and while inner peace has been written about from various religious viewpoints, there is very little scholarly work on inner peace from an Islamic theological and spiritual perspective. This book addresses this significant gap. With Islam being the second largest religion in the world, this book provides an important contribution to the literature on a faith tradition which is followed by so many. In addressing the intersection between Islam, spirituality, and psychology, this book makes an original contribution to the literature on modern Islamic thinkers like Nursi and to the broader fields of Islamic studies and theology, philosophy, and well-being studies. Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Peace and Conflict Research Francisco Ferrándiz, Antonius C. G. M. Robben, 2007-01-01. This book represents the scholarly work of the network European Doctorate Enhancement in Peace and Conflict Studies (EDEN), a broad training and research network linking scholars, departments, and universities interested in thinking and rethinking proposals, concepts, and methodologies for the expanding field of Peace and Conflict Studies from different disciplines such as law, history, sociology, anthropology, international relations, and political science. The Network has been functioning since the year 1996 and aims mainly to develop the level and quality of the discussion, to enhance the collaboration and coordination within the European academic community, encompassing the diversity of theoretical approaches in the area, to promote intellectual understanding, and to create an appropriate institutional infrastructure and consistent financial support for academic research. The Network has also been consistently fostering the exchange and mobility of graduate students through summer Intensive Programmes and Marie Curie Fellowships, so as to develop a critical mass of inter-disciplinary, comparative research expertise, providing access to tutorials, methodology courses, and significant human and practical resources for a better understanding of research questions, conceptual debates, and methodological challenges. The final purpose of the network is to generate sustained debate and exchange among policy makers, NGO's, media professionals, and academics in order to facilitate a scholarly dialogue and ongoing feedback between research, knowledge dissemination, and policy. Creating Sustainable Results with Solution-Focused Applied Psychology Louis Cauffman, 2023-04-05.
