Paskoff offers a comprehensive examination of the federal government's river improvements program which aimed to reduce hazards to navigation on the great rivers of America's interior during the early and mid nineteenth century. Danger on the rivers came in a variety of forms: Shoals, rapids, ice, rocks, sandbars, and uprooted trees, and submerged steamboat wrecks lodged in river beds were the most common perils and accounted for the largest number of steamboat disasters. As such, improving the safety and efficiency of the nation's waterways was consistently at the forefront of political and economic discussions of the day.

Ladies and Gentlemen on Display Charlene M. Boyer Lewis, 2001. Written as a dissertation in history at the U of Virginia, this study recreates the societal mores displayed at summer resorts at Virginia Springs from 1790-1860 as this was recorded in the letters and other archives of families who sojourned there. Lewis' history suggests that her history provides a new insight into plantation society by recording responses to unusual events and lack of routine. She supplements the account with some analysis of the sources for the romantic and idealistic views of this culture.
