France and the South Pacific since 1940 Robert Aldrich, 1993-09-01

For some Tahiti New Caledonia and Wallis and Futuna are idyllic tropical islands with a French flavour while for others they represent continuing French colonialism thwarted independence movements and nuclear testing This book looks at the realities of the French territories in Oceania and the former Franco British condominium of the New Hebrides now Vanuatu as well as changing French policy in the region This study is based on published sources as well as archival material and interviews and is a sequel to the highly praised The French Presence in the South Pacific 1842 1940

Afro-European Cartographies Dominic Thomas, 2014-10-21

Literary production is increasingly shaped by globalization and the complex nature of cultural political and social interaction As such longstanding colonial and postcolonial relations between Africa and Europe have yielded a range of challenging questions and new generations of writers with roots in Africa have invariably found themselves navigating new geographic terrains and negotiating racialized identities while simultaneously exploring the potential of literature in addressing the

Education as Politics Kelly M. Duke Bryant, 2015-05-19

Education as Politics argues that colonial schooling remade Senegalese politics during the transition to French rule creating political spaces that were at once African and colonial and ultimately leading to the historic 1914 election of a black African representative from Senegal to the French National Assembly
