Stress Clarke M. Ivanich, 2002 Stress seems to be an affliction common to almost everyone living in the 21st century except perhaps a few inhabitants of some far-off islands untouched by modern society. But what is it? And more importantly, what is there we can do about it? Some research says we need it, but this seems hard to believe. Other research, no less believable, says we don't need it, but we can manage it. About the only thing about stress that seems certain is that there is a lot of it around and that the less of it that lands on a person, the better. This book gathers new and important citations from both the journal and the book literature and provides access through author, subject and title indexes. Books in Print, 1991 Neurology Robin Howard, Dimitri Kullmann, David Werring, Michael Zandi, 2024-03-11 neurology A fully updated and authoritative neurology resource. The Queen Square Textbook has established itself as a favourite companion to clinical neurosciences training and teaching around the world whilst retaining its role as an invaluable reference guide for physicians and other healthcare professionals working in neurology, general medicine and related specialties. The book continues to reflect the core values essential to the practice of clinical neurology in the 21st century. The third edition has been extensively revised and updated to take account of the rapid pace of progress in the neurosciences and patient care. Contemporary neurology has been changed by the COVID 19 pandemic, the climate emergency and the growing inequalities in healthcare resources. The new edition has been extensively revised to reflect these challenges and affords a greater emphasis on management and rehabilitation whilst continuing to reflect the coherence of a text produced from a single, closely knit centre of excellence. Highlights of the new edition include: An updated approach to clinical examination, decision making and diagnosis. New developments in neuroimmunology, pathology and genetics. Neuropalliative care. Ethical and legal issues in clinical neurology. The latest developments in the understanding and management of stroke, movement disorders, epilepsy, cognitive impairment, multiple sclerosis, infections, myelopathy, anterior horn cell disease, disorders of nerve and muscle, neuro-oncology, neurological disorders of hearing, balance and vision, and the neurological care of critical illness, sleep, neuropsychiatry, pain, autonomic and urological disorders. An emphasis on treatment and rehabilitation of the person with a neurological disease. The new edition marks a significant transition to reflect contemporary neurological practice during uncertain times. It mirrors the enormous changes in investigation, diagnosis and treatment that have occurred in recent years whilst maintaining the underlying principle that we do not treat diagnoses but rather we care for people affected by neurological disease.
