Porpora, 2003-10-09 Do you believe in God Nine out of ten Americans unhesitatingly answer yes But for Douglas Porpora the real questions begin where pollsters leave off What he asks does religious belief actually mean in our lives Does it shape our identities and our actions Or despite our professions of faith are we morally adrift Landscapes of the Soul paints a disturbing picture of American spiritual life In his search for answers to his questions Porpora interviewed clerks and executives Jews evangelical Christians Buddhists Taoists and even followers of Bhagwan Sri Rajneesh He asked them about God and about what they saw as their own place in the universe What he found was a widespread inability to articulate any grand meaning of life We lack heroes to inspire us We lack a sense of calling of transcendent purpose in our existence Many of us seem incapable of caring deeply about the suffering of others Our society is permeated with moral indifference Yes we are a believing people but God is often a distant abstraction and rarely an emotional presence in our lives Only such an emotional connection Porpora argues can be the basis of a genuine moral vision Our emotional estrangement from God and the sacred keeps us from caring about social justice keeps us from wanting to change the world keeps us enclosed in our own private worlds Landscapes of the Soul is a passionate call to broaden our spiritual and moral horizons to raise our eyes to the greater reality that unites us all Black Jesus Jeremy Tubbs, 2024-12-04

Red Brother, White Brother Dr. Jean LaFrance, 2013-01-16 Aboriginal families and communities are losing their children to child welfare systems at an alarming rate Such children have very poor futures to look forward to rejection abuse and belonging to nowhere are too often the fate of children in care Academic failure poor self esteem and loss of identity accompany them often right into life on the streets experiencing lateral violence homelessness crime and ultimately jail where 70 % of inmates are former children in care This tragedy compounds over time former children in care grow up to become parents too often losing their own children to the child welfare system and the cycle perpetuates itself Red Brother White Brother proposes that we can break this cycle if we are willing to learn from the experiences of Aboriginal families children community members and those who work with them An ancient Hopi prophesy predicted that after five hundred years of contact the white brothers would return from their ventures to share their technology and material progress The red brothers in return would remind them of their sacred connection along with the values and responsibilities that this implies Red Brother White Brother proposes a process of reconciliation in our relationship to end the loss of children and the destruction of families This exploration reflects the pain and pathos of that relationship While posing some challenging questions to be considered on the path to atonement

Living on the Border of the Holy L. William Countryman,1999 The first thing to say in our exploration of priesthood is this priesthood is a fundamental and inescapable part of being human All human beings knowingly or not minister as priests to one another All of us knowingly or not receive priestly ministrations from one another Unless we begin here we are not likely to understand the confusions and uncertainties and opportunities we have been encountering in the life of the church itself in recent years We shall be in danger in fact of creating makeshift solutions to half understood problems easy answers to misleading questions temporary bandages for institutions that need to be healed from the ground up L William Countryman There is a lot of tension in churches today about whose ministry is primary that of the laity or of the clergy L William Countryman argues that we can only resolve that problem by seeing that we are all priests simply by virtue of being human and living as we all do on the mysterious and uncertain border with the Holy Living on the Border of the Holy offers a way of understanding the priesthood of the whole people of God and the priesthood of the ordained in complementary ways by showing how both are rooted in the fundamental priestly nature of human life After an exploration of the ministry of both laity and ordained Countryman concludes by examining the implications of this view of priesthood for churches and for educating those studying for ordination
