The Works William Bridge, 1845 The People of God in the Apocalypse Stephen Pattemore, 2004-06-17 Stephen Pattemore examines passages within Revelation 4 1 22 21 that depict the people of God as actors in the apocalyptic drama and infers what impact these passages would have had on the self understanding and behaviour of the original audience of the work He uses Relevance Theory a development in the linguistic field of pragmatics to help understand the text against the background of allusion to other texts Three important images are traced The picture of the souls under the altar 6 9 11 is found to govern much of the direction of the text with its call to faithful witness and willingness for martyrdom Even the militant image of a messianic army 7 1 8 14 1 5 urges the audience in precisely the same direction Both images combine in the final image of the bride the culmination of challenge and hope traced briefly in the New Jerusalem visions The Last Daze Wes Peters, 2015-09-15 We are instructed to be ready and alert for Christ's return but just what does that mean Jesus gives us the signs to look for that would indicate that His return is near We can also observe the political economic and moral trends and compare them to what the Bible says will be in place in the last days The seven seals provide a framework for the events of the last days and parallel the signs that Jesus gave us in Matthew Prophecies in Daniel describe the final world kingdom and its transition into a dictatorship Revelation talks about a mark that is required to buy or sell anything This book puts it all together in a succinct way that is easy to follow so that we might know the signs and be ready for His return
