PARTY POLITICS IN THE AGE OF CAESAR

by Lily Ross Taylor

"Avoid taking a definite stand on great public issues either in the Senate or before the people. Spend your energies towards making friends of key men in all classes of the voters."

This text from the gospel of political opportunism in the quest for office was not written yesterday in America, but addressed to Cicero to prepare him for the consular elections of 64 B.C. Professor Taylor's book is a commentary on it, designed to clarify the true meaning in Roman political life of terms like "party" and "faction." She also explains in detail the mechanics of Roman politics. (Volume 22.) 266 pages. $3.50 innovative scholarship on the Etruscans a vibrant independent people whose distinct civilization flourished in central Italy for most of the first millennium BCE and whose artistic social and cultural traditions helped shape the ancient Mediterranean European and Classical worlds Includes contributions from an international cast of both established and emerging scholars Offers fresh perspectives on Etruscan art and culture including analysis of the most up to date research and archaeological discoveries Reassesses and evaluates traditional topics like architecture wall painting ceramics and sculpture as well as new ones such as textile archaeology while also addressing themes that have yet to be thoroughly investigated in the scholarship such as the obesus etruscus the function and use of jewelry at different life stages Greek and Roman topoi about the Etruscans the Etruscans reception of ponderation and more Counters the claim that the Etruscans were culturally inferior to the Greeks and Romans by emphasizing fields where the Etruscans were either technological or artistic pioneers and by reframing similarities in style and iconography as examples of Etruscan agency and reception rather than as a deficit of local creativity

Murlo and the Etruscans Richard Daniel De Puma, Jocelyn Penny Small, 1994 Murlo and the Etruscans explores this and other mysteries in a collection of twenty essays by leading specialists of Etruscan and classical art all of whom have been associated with the Murlo site Numerous photographs and drawings accompany the essays The first eleven chapters survey specific groups of Etruscan objects and challenge the view of Etruscan art as provincial or derivative Interpretations of the magnificent series of decorated terra cotta frieze plaques and other architectural elements contribute to an understanding of Murlo and related Etruscan centers. Plaques depicting a lively Etruscan banquet offer a way to detect differences between Etruscan and ancient Greek society. The remaining nine chapters treat various aspects of Etruscan art, often moving beyond ancient Murlo both geographically and temporally. They examine funerary symbolism, sculpted amber and amber trade contacts along the ancient Adriatic Coast, depictions of domesticated cats, votive terra cottas of human anatomical parts, and how they help in understanding Etruscan medicine and the adaptation of Greek style myth and iconography in Etruscan art. These essays will have a broad impact on the study of the ancient Mediterranean. They will certainly be required reading not only for Etruscologists but for anyone with an interest in the world of classical antiquity. The range of subjects moving in wide arcs around the archaeological site at Murlo brings the site into focus in a way that a series of standard archaeological site reports could not. Kenneth Hamma, J. Paul Getty Museum. There is a fine and commendable interweaving and intertwining of thoughts and scholarly research throughout Murlo and the Etruscans. It will be a useful reference source for the art of Etruscan coroplast, wherein lies the forte of the Etruscan sculptor Mario A. Del Chiaro. University of California. The Classical Journal, 1954. Called Held in Value, it was the conception of James Deetz, who was Director of the Museum from 1979 to 1988. Preface. The Journal of Roman Studies, 1952. Includes Proceedings of the society, report of the council, lists of members, etc. Etruscan Cities. Francesca Boitani, Maria Cataldi, Marinella Pasquinucci, Filippo Coarelli, 1975. A beautifully illustrated description of the sites of Northern and Southern Etruria. The text is a highly competent distillation of knowledge old and new and contains the first reliable mention of a number of sites and subjects to appear outside the specialist journals. The National Union Catalog, Pre-1956 Imprints, 1968.
