Lost Volume A Catalogue Of Disasters:

Lost Volume Cornelia Parker, Edward Woodman, 1993 Tir du site Internet de Book Works Lost volume a catalogue of disasters continues Cornelia Parker's preoccupation with destruction Following on from Cold Dark Matter where with the help of the British Army Parker exploded a garden shed crammed with objects Lost volume a catalogue of disasters uses the intimate form of the book to present several flattened objects that through the use of trompe l'oeil appear to have been squashed between the pages of the book Parker crushes these selected objects in a press between sheets of heavy paper creating embossed indentations and reducing the objects to two dimensional representations of their former three dimensional selves The selected objects are seemingly unconnected a contents page that includes objects not flattened in the book confuses matters further The book is perhaps best read as a way of seeing objects and the world in a new light

Art and Destruction Jennifer Walden, 2014-01-14 Most talk of and writing on art is about its relationship to creation and creativity This of course takes various forms but ultimately the creative act in the making of art works is a key issue What happens when we put together art and destruction This has been referenced in some major areas such as that of art and iconoclasm and auto destructive art movements Less evident are accounts of more intimate smaller scale destructive interventions into the world of the made or exhibited art object or more singular and particularised approaches to the representation of mass destruction This volume addresses these lacunae by bringing together some distinct and very different areas for enquiry which nevertheless share a theme of destruction and share an emphasis upon the history of twentieth and twenty first century art making Scholars and makers have come together to produce accounts of artists whose making is driven by the breaking of or breaking down of matter and medium as part of the creative materialisation of the idea such as Richard Wentworth Bouke de Vries Cornelia Parker to name some of those artists represented here and indeed in one case how our very attempts to write about such practices are challenged by this making process Other perspectives have engaged in critical study of various destructive interventions in galleries Some of these whether as actual staged actions in real time or filmic representations of precarious objects are understood as artistic acts in and of themselves At the same time an account included in this volume of certain contemporary iconoclasts defacing or otherwise effecting destructive attempts upon canonised exhibited artworks reflects upon these destructive interventionists as self styled artists claiming to add to the significance of works via acts of destruction Yet other chapters provide a fresh outlook upon distinctive and unusual approaches to the representation of destruction in terms of the larger scale and landscape of artistic responses to mass destruction in times of war This book will be of interest to readers keen to encounter the range of nuance complexity and ambiguity applicable to the bringing together of art and destruction

Disaster Recovery World, 1991 Disaster Cinema in Historical Perspective Nikita Mathias, 2025-10-01 How do we experience disaster films in cinema And where does disaster cinema come from The two questions are more closely related than one might initially think For the framework of the cinematic experience of natural disasters has its roots in the mid eighteenth century when the aesthetic category of the sublime was re established as the primary mode for appreciating nature s violent forces In this book the sublime is understood as a complex and culturally specific meeting point between philosophical thought artistic creation social and technical development and popular imagination On the one hand the sublime provides a receptive model to uncover how cinematic disaster depictions affect our senses bodies and minds On the other hand this experiential framework of disaster cinema is only one of the most recent agents within the historical trajectory of sublime disasters which is traced in this book among a broad range of media from landscape and history painting to a variety of pictorial devices like Eidophusikon Panorama Diorama and finally cinema The Term Catalogues, 1668-1709, (A.D.; with a Number for Easter Term, 1711 A.D.): 1668-1682 Edward Arber, 1903 Alastair Campbell Diaries: Volume 7 Alastair Campbell, 2018-09-20 Caught in the no man s land between being a key figure in Downing Street and the relative anonymity of the world outside politics Alastair Campbell finds himself being torn in several directions Having succeeded Tony Blair as Prime Minister Gordon Brown wants Campbell at his side Campbell resists flooding his reservoir of guilt as a general election looms and Brown s indecision and fluctuating moods suggest the Labour administration is seriously threatened by the Tory posh boy David Cameron Soon Campbell is earning not only praise but big money from motivational speaking and writing novels which darkly reflect the personal mood swings that continue to concern to both him and his family Serious journalism across platforms old and new puts him back in the public eye and together with live appearances and a love of sport his enduring love affair with Burnley Football Club still smoulders sees him board a celebrity merry go round that often leaves him far from his comfort zone With politics constantly tugging his sleeve he eventually returns to the front line to marshal a party in disarray The intensity of the months leading up to 6 May 2010 is as dramatic as any screenplay with Campbell chronicling Brown s struggle to win over a disillusioned nation and then his dignified departure from the main stage For Campbell another chapter closes So what next Bookseller's catalogues Thomas Arthur (bookseller.), 1871
