Exhibiting the Past Kirk A. Denton,2013-12-31 During the Mao era China s museums served an explicit and uniform propaganda function underlining official Party history eulogizing revolutionary heroes and contributing to nation building and socialist construction With the implementation of the post Mao modernization program in the late 1970s and 1980s and the advent of globalization and market reforms in the 1990s China underwent a radical social and economic transformation that has led to a vastly more heterogeneous culture and polity Yet China is dominated by a single Leninist party that continues to rely heavily on its revolutionary heritage to generate political legitimacy With its messages of collectivism self sacrifice and class struggle that heritage is increasingly at odds with Chinese society and with the state's own neoliberal ideology of rapid paced development glorification of the market and entrepreneurship In this ambiguous political environment museums and their curators must negotiate between revolutionary ideology and new kinds of historical narratives that reflect and highlight a neoliberal present In Exhibiting the Past Kirk Denton analyzes types of museums and exhibitionary spaces from revolutionary history museums military museums and memorials to martyrs to museums dedicated to literature ethnic minorities and local history He discusses red tourism a state sponsored program developed in 2003 as a new form of patriotic education designed to make revolutionary history come alive and urban planning exhibition halls which project utopian visions of China's future that are rooted in new conceptions of the past Denton's method is narratological in the sense that he analyzes the stories museums tell about the past and the political and ideological implications of those stories Focusing on official exhibitionary culture rather than alternative or counter memory Denton reinserts the state back into the discussion of postsocialist culture because of its centrality to that culture and to show that state discourse in China is neither monolithic nor unchanging The book considers the variety of ways state museums are responding to the dramatic social technological and cultural changes China has experienced over the past three decades

The Politics of Cultural Capital Julia Lovell, 2006-03-31 In the 1980s China's politicians writers and academics began to raise an increasingly urgent question why had a Chinese writer never won a Nobel Prize for literature Promoted to the level of official policy issue and national complex Nobel anxiety generated articles conferences and official delegations to Sweden Exiled writer Gao Xingjian's win in 2000 failed to satisfactorily end the matter and the controversy surrounding the Nobel committee's choice has continued to simmer Julia Lovell's comprehensive study of China's obsession spans the twentieth century and taps directly into the key themes of modern Chinese culture national identity international status and the relationship between intellectuals and politics The intellectual preoccupation with the Nobel literature prize expresses tensions inherent in China's move toward a global culture after the collapse of the Confucian world view at the start of the twentieth century and particularly since China's re entry into the world economy in the post Mao era Attitudes toward the prize reveal the same contradictory mix of admiration resentment and anxiety that intellectuals and writers have long felt toward Western values as they struggled to shape a modern Chinese identity In short the Nobel complex reveals the pressure points in an intellectual community not entirely sure of itself Making use of extensive original research including interviews with leading contemporary Chinese authors and critics The Politics of Cultural Capital is a comprehensive up to date treatment of an issue that cuts to the heart of modern and contemporary Chinese thought and culture It will be essential reading for scholars of modern Chinese literature and culture globalization post colonialism and comparative and world literature Writing Taiwan Dewei Wang, Carlos Rojas, 2007-01-24 This collection is the first volume in English to examine the entire span of modern Taiwanese literature from the first decades of the twentieth century to the present Cultural Revolution Manuscripts Lena Henningsen, 2021-10-06 This book investigates handwritten entertainment fiction shouchaoben wenxue which circulated clandestinely during the Chinese Cultural Revolution Lena Henningsen's analyses of exemplary stories and their variation across different manuscript copies brings to light the creativity of these readers turned copyists Through copying readers modified the stories and became secondary authors who reflected on the realities of the Cultural Revolution Through an enquiry into actual reading practices as mapped in autobiographical accounts and into intertextual references within the stories the book also positions manuscript fiction within the larger reading cosmos of the long 1970s Henningsen analyzes the production circulation and consumption of these texts considering continuities across the alleged divide of the end of the Mao era and the beginning of the reform period The book further reveals how these texts achieved fruitful afterlives as re published bestsellers or as adaptations into comic books or movies continuing to shape the minds of their audience and the imaginations of the past Chapter 5 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link springer.com After Marx Colleen Lye, Christopher Nealon, 2022-03-17 After Marx showcases the importance of Marxist literary study for an era of intersectional politics and economic decline
