Family Transitions Celia Jaes Falicov, 1991-07-01

Of all concepts used by family therapists the family development framework is among the least studied in spite of its relevance to understanding spontaneous family change and to facilitating therapeutic intervention The notion that a developmental difficulty underlies the appearance of clinical symptoms has become a time honored tradition in family therapy just as it has been in individual therapy Yet unlike the well established and well researched models of child and adult development those in family development are rudimentary Despite increasing interest in the family life cycle as a framework for family therapy relatively little has been done to elucidate the specific dimensions and processes of spontaneous and therapeutically induced change over the family life cycle This volume gathers original contributions of some of the most prominent family theorists researchers and clinicians of our time to improve our understanding of these important and hitherto neglected domains The book opens with a comprehensive overview by the editor that outlines contributions to the family life cycle framework from family sociology and crisis theory This is followed by a comparative analysis of developmental thinking explicit or implicit in the theory and interventions of the major family therapy approaches Then divided into four parts FAMILY TRANSITIONS introduces new conceptual models that integrate the temporality of the life cycle approach with systems theory By their very nature these models cut across therapeutic orientations and have important clinical applications In Part II family therapy s views of development are freed from the confines of the therapist s office and placed in the context of other disciplines Chapters provide analysis of changing or static sociocultural values that can affect conceptions of development potential misuse of the concept of cultural identity in health mental health and education how family identity operates as a vehicle for cultural transmission over generations and family therapists assumptions about women s development The role of expected and unexpected events in the family life cycle is the focus of Part III Chapters on clinical approaches geared to dislocations of life cycle occurrences due to unexpected crises chronic illnesses loss or drug abuse provide illustrations of interventions that utilize enhance or potentially detract from the family s developmental flow Part IV explores the articulation of the life cycle framework within four major family therapy orientations intergenerational structural systemic and symbolic experiential Each of these chapters endeavors to elucidate what is the place of family development in each orientation concepts of continuity and change use of the concept of stages transitions or developmental tasks the specific dimensions that change in most families over time and the links between family dysfunction and life cycle issues Finally each chapter illustrates through clinical example assessment strategies formulation of treatment goals and interventions as these emerge from a particular life cycle model FAMILY TRANSITIONS presents a significant advance in our understanding of functional and dysfunctional family development and offers a range of interventions to promote developmental change It is an invaluable resource for clinical psychologists psychiatrists social workers and counselors that will also interest human development professionals family sociologists and family researchers FAMILY TRANSITIONS can serve as a developmentally oriented textbook for teaching family therapy in academic and professional settings

Prevention of Maladjustment to Life Course Transitions Moshe Israelashvili, 2023-06-01 This book provides a comprehensive and updated review of the concepts models and interventions related to the process of adjustment to life course transitions In times of transition an individual is exposed to experiences that require them to assume new roles and exhibit updated behaviors Regardless of the characteristics of these transitions exposure to normative trajectories imposes on the person an intensive engagement in a process of re adjustment Sometimes this demand is beyond the scope of one's ability motivation or comprehension Hence some people might ineffectively perceive and or react to the change and end up feeling unable to handle the change and inclined to escape the situation A preventive intervention that either reduces the impact of possible risk factors or fosters possible protective factors would support the people in managing the transition While the importance of prevention of maladjustment is repeatedly mentioned in the literature this is the first known book on how to prevent maladjustment It examines how the sense of transition emerges what adjustment means the models that elaborate on how people manage in times of transition what the antecedents of maladjustment are and especially how maladjustment could be prevented Out of these discussions a new model The Transitional Stress and Adjustment TSA Model is suggested as a grand framework for paving a way forward to better prevent people's maladjustment to life course transitions Prevention of Maladjustment to Life Course Transitions is a much needed cornerstone in the future development within the prevention science framework This book has interdisciplinary appeal for researchers practitioners and graduate students in psychology sociology public health social work criminology medicine health sciences public policy economics and education who consider prevention an important vehicle of intervention to promote health and wellbeing Its focus on the topic of adjustment also would be of special interest to those who explore child and youth development
