Creoles, Their Substrates, and Language Typology Claire Lefebvre, 2011-01-01 Since creole languages draw their properties from both their substrate and superstrate sources the typological classification of creoles has long been a major issue for creolists typologists and linguists in general Several contradictory proposals have been put forward in the literature For example creole languages typologically pair with their superstrate languages Chaudenson 2003 with their substrate languages Lefebvre 1998 or even creole languages are alike Bickerton 1984 such that they constitute a definable typological class McWhorter 1998 This book contains 25 chapters bearing on detailed comparisons of some 30 creoles and their substrate languages As the substrate languages of these creoles are typologically different the detailed investigation of substrate features in the creoles leads to a particular answer to the question of how creoles should be classified typologically The bulk of the data show that creoles reproduce the typological features of their substrate languages This argues that creoles cannot be claimed to constitute a definable typological class Pidgins, Creoles and Mixed Languages Viveka Velupillai, 2015-04-15 This lucid and theory neutral introduction to the study of pidgins creoles and mixed languages covers both theoretical and empirical issues pertinent to the field of contact linguistics Part I presents the theoretical background with chapters devoted to the definition of terms the sociohistorical settings theories on the genesis of pidgins and creoles as well as discussions on language variation and the sociology of language Part II empirically tests assumptions made about the linguistic characteristics of pidgins and creoles by systematically comparing them with other natural languages in all linguistic domains This is the first introduction that consistently applies the findings of the Atlas of Pidgin and Creole Language Structures and systematically includes extended pidgins and mixed languages in the discussion of each linguistic feature The book is designed for students of courses with a focus on pidgins creoles and mixed languages as well as typologically oriented courses on contact linguistics The Emergence of Pidgin and Creole Languages Jeff Siegel, 2008-02-28 This book examines the emergence of pidgins and creoles and the controversies surrounding current theories about them Among the questions considered are why their grammars are simple at the pidgin creole postcreole life cycle and the causes of grammatical innovation The analysis is supported with detailed examples and case studies Creoles, Contact, and Language Change Geneviève Escure, Armin Schwegler, 2004-10-13 This volume contains a selection of fifteen papers presented at three consecutive meetings of the Society for Pidgin and Creole Linguistics held in Washington D C January 2001 Coimbra Portugal June 2001 and San Francisco January 2002 The fifteen articles offer a balanced sampling of creolists current research interests All of the contributions address questions directly relevant to pidgin creole studies and other contact languages The majority of papers address issues of morphology or syntax Some of the contributions make use of phonological analysis while others study language development from the point of view of acquisition A few papers examine discourse strategies and style or broader issues of social and ethnic identity While this array of topics and perspectives is reflective of the diversity of the field there is also much common ground in that all of the papers adduce solid data corpora to support their analyses The range of languages analyzed spans the planet as approximately twenty contact varieties are studied in this volume Creoles in Education Bettina Migge, Isabelle Léglise, Angela Bartens, 2010-05-17 This volume offers a first survey of projects from around the world that seek to implement Creole languages in education In contrast to previous works this volume takes a holistic approach Chapters discuss the sociolinguistic educational and ideological context of projects policy developments and project implementation development and evaluation It compares different kinds of educational activities focusing on Creoles and discusses a list of procedures that are necessary for successfully developing evaluating and reforming educational activities that aim to integrate Creole
