- Airports British Library, 2012-05-21 No detailed description available for A Airports Teaching English for the Real World Joe Nutt, 2020-05-15 So much of the teaching in schools of how the English works does not prepare students for the real world So little has changed in exams the curriculum or the way people think about English teaching in several decades This book is Joe Nutt s attempt to help schools redress that dramatic imbalance It s not in any sense a practical teaching guide only for English teachers nor is it full of hints and tips lesson plans and schemes of work Teaching English for the Real World is a far wider consideration of what schools and English teachers should be doing if they wish to prepare secondary school children to be successful and effective users of English in the real world of work higher education and adult life they will all too soon enter If you are an English teacher by the time you finish reading Teaching English for the Real World you should be better prepared to deliver lessons that those you teach will forever be grateful for The book consists of four main sections English in context towards the GCSE choosing texts and technology matters It starts by putting English clearly into context through a range of current examples It urges teachers to consider the complex role English usage plays on everything from the side of a bus through tissue thin social media garish slideshows and perky TED talks to the hundreds of pages of research or official reports so often used as the basis for serious political policy and commercial decision making It will then examine the classroom status quo and instead of the unrealistic and damaging focus on experiment and creativity instead of requiring them to write newspaper articles stories or speeches the main deliverables in any English GCSE exam the book will argue that teachers should think carefully about how to connect what children write with who they are and where they really want to publish The next section deals with choices of texts There is a place for children to be taught to write well by example but there are challenging questions to ask about much of the material routinely chosen How often are texts and authors selected for study for reasons that have absolutely nothing whatsoever to do with knowledge or linguistic skill and everything to do with politics Even exam boards are guilty of this The final section examines the relationship between English and the technology real people use to produce it It reflects on how technology has impacted on the quality of the reading experience itself and argue that there is a crisis in reading in secondary schools with many children sailing through exams yet leaving school as disinterested and even poor readers And it suggests how teachers might approach introducing these different risks to children and equip them best to make sound judgements about the way they write and communicate for personal and employment purposes in adult life The English Catalogue of Books Published from January, 1835, to January, 1863 ,1864 The Cumulative Book Index ,1913 Namibia National Bibliography ,1993

Multimodality in English Language Learning Sophia Diamantopoulou, Sigrid Ørevik, 2021-12-31 This edited volume provides research based knowledge on the use production and assessment of multimodal texts in the teaching and learning of English as an Additional Language EAL The book reflects growing interest in research on EAL with increasing numbers of learners of English worldwide and the growing relevance of EAL to numerous education systems The volume examines different aspects of English from a multimodal perspective showcasing empirical research from across five continents and all three levels of education Applying frameworks based on Multimodal Social Semiotics and Systemic Functional Linguistics chapters focus on the use and affordances of multimodal texts in pedagogy literature culture text production assessment and curriculum development connected to EAL Directing attention to the significance of modes beyond speech and writing in EAL the volume provides a wide range of perspectives and experiences that can be applied more widely and inspire other practices in the global and diverse field of EAL teaching learning and assessment This collection will be of interest to scholars in multimodality language education and teacher education
