The Story of France Thomas Edward Watson, 1899 I Like Hong Kong Frank Vigneron, 2010-06-15 Contemporary Chinese art is nowadays a subject area widely taught and researched in academic and nonacademic publications but it has not yet been studied by localizing the research in specific cultural areas within the Chinese world Selecting Hong Kong for a first such study was an obvious choice since Hong Kong culture has had for already quite a long time very specific features which have put it apart from the generally accepted definition of Chinese national culture Although it is not a survey of Hong Kong art as such a study would demand many more books the works of about eighty artists working in Hong Kong and sometimes outside have been analyzed and contextualized in these pages Art, Global Maoism and the Chinese Cultural Revolution Jacopo Galimberti, Noemi de Haro García, Victoria H. F. Scott, 2019-11-18 This is the first book to explore the global influence of Maoism on modern and contemporary art Featuring eighteen original essays written by established and emerging scholars from around the world and illustrated with fascinating images not widely known in the west the volume demonstrates the significance of visuality in understanding the protean nature of this powerful worldwide revolutionary movement Contributions address regions as diverse as Singapore Madrid Lima and Maputo moving beyond stereotypes and misconceptions of Mao Zedong Thought's influence on art to deliver a survey of the social and political contexts of this international phenomenon. At the same time, the book attends to the similarities and differences between each case study. It demonstrates that the chameleonic appearances of global Maoism deserve a more prominent place in the art history of both the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. Louisiana Planter and Sugar Manufacturer, 1923. The Louisiana Planter and Sugar Manufacturer, 1908. Louis Cane, 1979. Official Register of the United States. United States. Department of the Interior, 1890. "Art and Visual Culture on the French Riviera, 1956-1971". Rosemary O'Neill, 2017-07-05. The Riviera in the 1950s and 1960s was culturally rich with modernist icons such as Matisse and Picasso in residence but also a burgeoning tourist culture that established the C d Azur as a center of indigenous artists associated with Nouveau R isme. Fluxus and Supports Surfaces emerged under the mantle of the Ecole de Nice. Drawing on the primary sources and little-known publications generated during the period from museum archives, collections in the region, and privately owned archives, this study integrates material published in monographic studies of individuals and art movements to offer the first in-depth study of this important movement in twentieth-century art. The author situates the work of the Ecole de Nice within the broader social currents that are so important in contextualizing this phenomenon within this internal region of France and underscores why this work was so significant at this historical moment within the context of the broader European art scene and contemporary American art with which it shared affinities. Despite their stylistic differences and associations with groups that are generally considered distinct, O'Neill discloses that these artists shared conceptual affinities: theatrical modes of presentation based on appropriation, use of the ready-made, and a determination to counter style-driven painting associated with the postwar Ecole de Paris. Art and Visual Culture on the Riviera 1956-1971 suggests that the emergence of an Ecole de Nice internally eroded the dominance of Paris as the national standard at this moment of French decentralization efforts and that these artists fostered a model of aesthetic pluralism that remained locally distinct yet fully engaged with international vanguard trends of the 1960s. France and the Visual Arts Since 1945. Catherine Dossin, 2019-01-01. Taking on the myth of France's creative exhaustion following World War II, this collection of essays brings together an international team of scholars whose research offers English readers a rich and complex overview of the place of France and French artists in the visual arts since 1945. Addressing a wide range of artistic practices spanning over seven decades and using different methodologies, their contributions cover ground charted and unknown. They introduce greater depth and specificity to familiar artists and movements such as Lettrism, Situationist International, or Nouveau R alisme while bringing to the fore lesser-known artists and groups including GRAPUS, the Sociological Art Collective, and Nicolas Sch ffer.

Collectively they stress the political dimensions and social ambitions of the art produced in France at the time deconstruct the traditional geography of the French art world and highlight the multiculturalism of the French art scene that resulted from its colonial past and the constant flux of artistic travels and migrations Ultimately the book contributes to a story of postwar art in which France can be inscribed not as a main or sub chapter but rather as a vector in the wider constellation of modern and contemporary art
