Oklahoma City Terry L. Griffith, 1999-09-15 Located along the Atchison Topeka Santa Fe Railroad at a stop known as Oklahoma Station Oklahoma City was born on April 22 1889 at 12 noon By 6 00 p m she had a population of around 10 000 citizens As with any birth there were many firsts in the newly opened territory and many of these landmark events have been captured and preserved in historic photographs With images culled from the archives of the authors own vast personal collection as well as the Oklahoma Historical Society and other collections the stories of prosperity and development of the areas first settlers are told through Statehood In light of this perseverance it is no wonder that Theodore Roosevelt announced Men and Women of Oklahoma I was never in your country until last night but I feel at home here I am blood of your blood and bone of your bone and I am bound to some of you and to your sons by the strongest ties that can bind one man to another

The Self as Other in Minority American Life Writing Nelly Mok, Claudine Raynaud, 2019-03-22 Hinting at Rimbaud's provocative dictum that I is an other this anthology discusses a wide ranging array of twentieth century and contemporary minority American modes of life writing prompted by the following questions Who else hides behind this I that the author narrator character contractually claims to be What generic aesthetic political and socio cultural issues are at stake in a conception of the self as other The essays analyze autobiographical works from major Native American writers John Milton Oskison and Louise Erdrich an African American music hall artist Josephine Baker and writers John Edgar Wideman and Ta Nehisi Coates Caribbean American writers Jamaica Kincaid and Edwidge Danticat and Asian American writers Ruth Ozeki Cathy Park Hong Theresa Hak Kyung Cha and Loung Ung They shed light on autobiography as a collaborative writing and reading practice rather than as a self oriented genre probing the relational dimension of life writing Building on the feminist theorization of relationality and the political and aesthetic power of relational bonds they put forward the necessarily intersubjective dynamics of minority American self conceptions which originate in the writers experiences of otherness The articles highlight that the relational ethnic self characteristically inhabits the liminal spaces where modes of life writing overlap and can thrive in dialogical intertextual readings They foreground the subversive cathartic and memorializing potential of minority American modes of other writing whose ontological dimension is manifest in the writers quest for a sense of repossession and agency beyond communal boundaries Contributing to the up to date critical discussion on relationality not as a genre but rather as a reading and a storytelling practice they examine the ways it participates in a global transcultural approach to ethno racial issues in the United States

The School Executive, 1928 Minnesota Journal of Education, 1929 School Executives Magazine, 1928 Macroevolution in Human Prehistory Anna Prentiss, Ian Kuijt, James C. Chatters, 2009-09-18 Cultural evolution much like general evolution works from the assumption that cultures are descendent from much earlier ancestors Human culture manifests itself in forms ranging from the small bands of hunters through intermediate scale complex hunter gatherers and farmers to the high density urban settlements and complex polities that characterize much of today's world The chapters in the volume examine the dynamic interaction between the micro and macro scales of cultural evolution developing a theoretical approach to the archaeological record that has been termed evolutionary processual archaeology

The contributions in this volume integrate positive elements of both evolutionary and processualist schools of thought. The approach as explicated by the contributors in this work offers novel insights into topics that include the emergence, stasis, collapse, and extinction of cultural patterns and development of social inequalities. Consequently, these contributions form a stepping off point for a significant new range of cultural evolutionary studies. Media Review Digest C. Edward Wall, 2002

Facing Terror Jim Rodgers, Tim Kullman, 2002. Facing Terror is an interdisciplinary effort to examine the sociopolitical roots and consequences of radical right extremism and domestic terrorism in the United States. This work is an analytical treatment of contemporary domestic terrorism and the groups and leaders associated with such extremism. Presented and organized in textbook form complete with instructional aids, authors Jim Rodgers and Tim Kullman incorporate the social science model of systems-based policy analysis in the study of American policy responses to domestic terrorism from 1970 to the present. Rodgers and Kullman present a tremendous amount of historical and contemporary research on domestic extremism in responses presented in the text. They provide the student with a complete but concise examination of domestic terrorism with an eye toward the future through the presentation of concrete options and suggestions for change in how domestic terrorism issues are dealt with.
