Second Language Conversations

Vincenza Tudini

Second Language Conversations:

Second Language Interaction Salla Kurhila, 2006-05-03 Members of divergent societies are increasingly involved in interactional situations both publicly and privately where participants do not share linguistic resources. Second language conversations have become common everyday events in the globalized world and an interest has evolved to determine how interaction is conducted and understanding achieved in such asymmetric conversations. This book describes how mutual intelligibility is established, checked, and remedied in authentic interaction between first and second language speakers both in institutional and everyday situations. The study is rooted in the interactional view on language and it contributes to our knowledge on interactional practices in particular in cases where some doubt exists about the level of intersubjectivity between the participants. It expands the traditional research agenda of conversation analysis that is based on the concepts of membership and members shared competences. By showing in detail how speakers with restricted linguistic resources can interact successfully and achieve the institutional goals of interactions, this study also adds to our knowledge of the questions that are central in second language research such as when and how the non-native speakers' linguistic output is modified by themselves or by the native speakers or when the non-native speakers display uptake after these modifications. Second Language Conversations Rod Gardner, Johannes Wagner, 2005-12-07 This collection is the first to consistently adopt Conversation Analysis as an approach to second language interaction. By examining first and second language speakers' participation in a wide range of activities, it challenges the dominant view of nonnative speakers as deficient communicators. Proposing instead to understand second language users' conversational participation as interactional achievement, the book makes a powerful case for ethnomethodological respecification in second language research. Professor Gabriele Kasper, University of Hawai'i. Conversations involving speakers whose first language is not the language in which they are talking have become widespread in the globalized world. Migration, increased travel for business or pleasure, as well as communication through new technologies such as the internet, make Second Language Conversations an increasingly common everyday event. In this book, Conversation Analysis is used to explore natural casual talk between speakers in a second language. The contributors shift emphasis away from controlled contexts such as the classroom towards more sociable environments in which people go about their daily routines. English, German, French, Japanese, Finnish, and Danish are all analyzed as second languages within a variety of professional, educational, and sociable situations. This collection of essays aims to present naturally occurring Second Language Conversations in order to show what speakers in these situations do, how they utilize first language conversational practices, and whether or not grammar, vocabulary, and pronunciation help or hinder the construction of meaning. Online Second Language Acquisition Vincenza Tudini, 2010-10-07 A book-length exploration of the role of online chat in supporting the teaching and learning of foreign languages is well overdue. Tudini's new book takes a Conversation Analysis approach, which is new to online Second Language Acquisition. It provides observable

previously undocumented insights into how native speakers and learners pursue the learning of foreign language and culture during online text chat It looks at dyadic chat between native speakers and learners with examples drawn from a corpus featuring 133 learners and 584 native speakers of Italian This unique book contributes to our understanding of how conversation in a foreign language unfolds between native speakers and learners in an online social environment rather than in the classroom It will be of interest to researchers in second language acquisition and conversation analysis as well as language teachers

Conversation Analysis and Second Language Pedagogy Jean Wong, Hansun Zhang Waring, 2010-06-11 Conversation and speaking skills are the key building blocks for much of language learning This text increases teachers awareness about spoken language and suggests ways of applying that knowledge to teaching second language interaction skills based on insights from Conversation Analysis CA Conversation Analysis and Second Language Pedagogy reviews key CA concepts and findings directly connects findings from CA with second language pedagogy presents a model of interactional practices grounded in CA concepts includes numerous transcripts of actual talk invites readers to complete a variety of tasks to solidify and extend their understandings features a useful collection of practical teaching activities The time is ripe for a book that blends conversation analysis and applied linguistics This text takes that important step extending the reaches of these once separate academic fields Assuming neither background knowledge of conversation analysis nor its connection to second language teaching it is designed for courses in TESOL and applied linguistics and as a resource for experienced teachers material developers and language assessment specialists seeking to update their knowledge and hone their craft

Online Second Language Acquisition, 2010 A book length exploration of the role of online chat in supporting the teaching and learning of foreign languages is well overdue Tudini's new book takes a Conversation Analysis approach which is new to online Second Language Acquisition It provides observable previously undocumented insights into how native speakers and learners pursue the learning of foreign language and culture during online text chat It looks at dyadic chat between native speakers and learners with examples drawn from a corpus featuring 133 learners and 584 native speakers of Italian This unique book contributes to
