First Language Attrition Monika S. Schmid, 2004-01-01 This volume provides a state of the art treatment of research on language attrition the non pathological loss of a language through lack of exposure It combines a review of past and present research with in depth treatments of specific theoretical and methodological issues and reports on individual studies Special prominence is given to the identification of problematic areas in attrition research with a view to pointing out possible solutions The book specifically addresses itself to those who wish to acquaint themselves with the research area of language attrition providing them with both a thorough overview of the field and a basis on which to build their own research. The combination of experience and an innovative outlook present in this collection however make it a valuable source for those familiar with attrition as well. Especially useful to both beginners and veterans is the extensive annotated bibliography.

Cognitive Processing in Second Language Acquisition Martin Pütz, Laura Sicola, 2010. This edited volume represents state of the field research linking cognition and second language acquisition reflecting the experience of the learner when engaged in noticing input output processing retrieval and even attrition of target forms. Contributions are both theoretical and practical describing a variety of L1 L2 and L3 combinations from around the world as observed in spoken written and computer mediated contexts. The book relates conditions of language task medium or environment to how learners make decisions about language with discussions about the application or efficacy of these conditions on linguistic success and development and pedagogical implications.

Narrative Development in a Multilingual Context Ludo Verhoeven, Sven Strömquist, 2001-12-31. In this volume the results of a number of empirical studies of the development of narrative construction within a multilingual context are presented and discussed. It is explored what operating principles underlie the process of narrative production in L1 and L2. Developmental relations between form and function will be studied across a broad range of functional categories such as temporality perspective connectivity and narrative coherence. Moreover a variety of language contact situations is considered with broad variation in the typological distances between the languages in order to enable cross linguistic comparison. The analysis of learner data in various cross linguistic settings may thus offer new information on the role of the structural properties of unrelated languages on the process of narrative acquisition. In the present volume an attempt is also made to find out how transfer from one language to the other is facilitated. Finally the effects of input on narrative construction in children's first and second language are examined in several studies.

The Cambridge Handbook of Third Language Acquisition Jennifer Cabrelli, Adel Chaouch-Orozco, Jorge González Alonso, Sergio Miguel Pereira Soares, Eloi Puig-Mayenco, Jason Rothman, 2023-07-27.
