Let the Water Do the Work Bill Zeedyk, Van Clothier, 2014 Let the Water Do the Work is an important contribution to riparian restoration By thinking like a creek one can harness the regenerative power of floods to reshape stream banks and rebuild floodplains along gullied stream channels Induced Meandering is an artful blend of the natural sciences geomorphology hydrology and ecology which govern channel forming processes Induced Meandering directly challenges the dominant paradigm of river and creek stabilization by promoting the intentional erosion of selected banks while fostering deposition of eroded materials on an evolving floodplain The river self heals as the growth of native riparian vegetation accelerates the meandering process Not all stream channel types are appropriate for Induced Meandering yet the Induced Meandering philosophy of going with the flow can inform all stream restoration projects Induced meandering strives to understand rivers as timeless entities governed by immutable rules serving their watersheds setting their own timetables and coping with their own realities as they carry mountains grain by grain to the sea Anyone with an interest in natural resource management in these uncertain times should read this book and put these ideas to work Journal of a Tour in Europe and the East, 1844-1846 George Frederick Weston, 1894 Field Trip Guidebook New York State Geological Association, 1996
