Margins Of Insecurity Minorities International Security:

Margins of Insecurity Sam C. Nolutshungu, 1996 A number of crises since the end of the Cold War have demonstrated the insecurity of ordinary people in circumstances where states are either unable to provide protection or are themselves the principle sources of violence Public opinion has provoked international politicians to recognise a problem in which they should intervene but it is rare for effective policies to be implemented Emerging from a series of workshops on the International Security of Marginal Populations the essays seek solutions which go beyond the traditional emphasis on the interests of the state and give due weight to the needs of minority populations SAM C NOLUTSHUNGU was Professor of Political Science in the Frederick Douglass Institute of African and African American studies at the University of Rochester Contributors DAVID LAITIN KIM HOPPER ZOLTAN BARANY JONATHAN BOYARIN REMY LEVEAU ALFRED DARNELL CHARLES R HALE ANTHONY ASIWAJU SAM NOLUTSHUNGU

Those Who Stayed, 1922 Angelos Dalachanis, Alexis Rappas, 2025-09-30 The year 1922 marks a major turning point in Eastern Mediterranean history with the abolition of the Ottoman Sultanate concluding a long period of upheaval known as the Eastern Question As the empire gave way to European colonization and the nation state model its once multicultural societies were homogenized through violence population transfers and treaties The liberal principle of national self determination often led to devastating human costs as populations were either massacred forcibly exchanged or reduced to minorities within new political entities While scholarship has thoroughly documented the demographic changes that accompanied the post Ottoman transition this volume focuses on a less explored dimension the agency of those labeled as minorities It examines how these communities navigated their new reality within emerging nation states or League of Nations mandates Adopting a broad and situational understanding of minority it includes both legally defined groups and those marginalized in practice such as Muslims in Western Thrace Christians in Istanbul Armenians in Jerusalem Muslims in Serbia and Jews in Salonica The volume uses diverse methodologies archival research network analysis microhistory and translocal perspectives to investigate the lived experiences of entrenched minorities It offers new insights into both lesser known and familiar minority groups while engaging critically with existing literature By emphasizing these groups strategies and resilience the volume challenges narratives dominated by violence and nostalgia offering a more nuanced understanding of post 1922 Eastern Mediterranean history It will appeal not only to scholars of minority studies but to anyone interested in the region s modern past

Media and Mapping Practices in the Middle East and North Africa Alena Strohmaier,Angela Krewani,2025-10-01 A few months into the popular uprisings in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region in 2009 10 the promises of social media including its ability to influence a participatory governance model grassroots civic engagement new social dynamics inclusive societies and new opportunities for businesses and entrepreneurs became more evident than ever Simultaneously cartography received new considerable interest as it merged with social media platforms In an attempt to rearticulate the relationship between media and mapping practices whilst also addressing new and social media this interdisciplinary book abides by one relatively clear point space is a media product The overall focus of this book is accordingly not so much on the role of new technologies and social networks as it is on how media and mapping practices expand the very notion of cultural engagement political activism popular protest and social participation

Fragments of Democracy Gavin Williams,2003 Originally presented as a lecture this occasional paper argues that definitions of democracy are incomplete and their meanings dependent on their historical context
